Ailing I-J Editor Sends Christmas Message Of Hope

(Editor's Note: The most welcome Christmas present received at the Independent-Journal to date was the following story from Associate Editor Chapin A. Day, hospitalized following cancer surgery last week. The arrival of the story assured his colleagues that Day was making a rapid and strong comeback from a very "close shave.")

By CHAPIN A. DAY

U.C. MOFFITT HOSPITAL, S.F. — In the subdued light of this hospital's new Intensive Care unit, the patients won't be able to tell whether it's Christmas Eve, Christmas morning or Christmas night. But over its 11 beds must hover the host of angels who brought light and song to a manger in Bethlehem and hope to the world.

It is difficult to describe that little area of intensive mercy on the seventh floor. Most patients can recall little of what went on there and have only the vaguest idea of what it looks like. Their nearest relatives, who spent fitful hour upon hour in a sterile waiting room, get inside only for 15 minutes twice each day. So they have only fleeting impressions of what goes on inside.

To a patient, ICU, as it is usually called, is a montage. It's gaining consciousness to see a lovely, young face bending over him asking, "How do you feel? Is there anything you want?" It's a shining chrome panel on the wall over his head which puts every facility within reach of his doctors and nurses. It's a green-smocked orderly plumping a pillow into the middle of his back saying, "There now, is that better?"

But more than this, ICU is people. People in desperate trouble. People trained to help. It is teams of nurses, teams of doctors, united with knowledge and modern equipment. Together they descend like the host at Bethlehem bringing hope alike to the bedridden and to the visitors in the waiting room.

And ICU is also the people in the beds. It's hard to get more than a fragmentary impression; there is no socializing. The muted rumble as an iron lung is rolled in attracts attention. The man in the next bed is slipped into it and the soft whir of a motor and the swish of air moving in and out is audible.

Then other noises become noticeable, soft and regular sounds which, like the tick of a clock, hadn't been heard. The soft intake of air, a click, then a subdued exhaust of air across the room; the regular tap, tap, tap of wheels running smoothly; the noise of suction, continuous sometimes, spasmodic others.

In the next bed the iron lung hasn't been a success. A team of doctors in their tight operating room caps work to ease gasps. The curtain between the beds is pulled aside a bit and the man is lying there flat on his back, young, tanned and with an incredibly straight nose.

The doctors operate right there, opening his throat and inserting a tube into his trachea; the iron lung is gone and the sharp face is more reposed, although now crisscrossed with bandage and rubber tubing.

Across the foot of the bed comes the wracking breathing of a man called John. There is a muted consultation to decide whether to summon "his only friend down the peninsula."

Fourth Convict Is Slain Within 2-Week Period

Stabbed To Death In Quentin Yard

Another inmate was found slashed to death at San Quentin Prison this morning.

Los Angeles forger, Robert A. Lopez, 21, was found by prison guards lying unconscious with 17 stab wounds, in the prison's upper yard near the inmate canteen at 9:25 a.m.

This makes the fourth slaying in less than two weeks within the prison's walls.

According to Asst. Warden Dale B. Frady, the Lopez murder occurred while more than 300 other inmates thronged the murder area. Lopez had been stabbed by a 14-inch bayonet-like knife fashioned from strap iron found near the scene of the murder, said Frady. Eight of the stab wounds were in Lopez' back and five in the chest.

He was pronounced dead minutes after being taken to the prison hospital without ever regaining consciousness.

Guards were attracted to the area of the crime when the more than 300 prisoners congregated in the yard suddenly began scattering in all directions. Two of the guards ran toward the canteen and found the unconscious Lopez, Frady said. A trail of blood indicated that attack had evidently occurred 75 feet from where the body was found.

Frady indicated that the dozen prisoners known to have been in the vicinity when the stabbing took place are now being questioned by prison authorities.

Warden Fred R. Dickson has personally taken charge of the investigation, Frady said.

Lopez, who entered San Quentin Oct. 6, 1961, on a six months to 14 years sentence for forgery, had just been released last month after a year in the prison's Adjustment Center as a disciplinary problem, according to Frady.

Frady said that Lopez had been "removed from the general prison population" into the

70 Perish In Italian Yule Train Wreck

CATANZARO, Italy (UPI) — The rear car of a two-coach diesel train roaring through southern Italy La Sila Mountains in a freezing rainstorm hurtled into a 100-foot gorge today, killing most of the Christmas travelers jammed aboard.

Italian authorities put the death toll at 71 and said about 30 more of the passengers crammed into a coach built for 80 were injured, some so badly they were not expected to live. Most of the victims were teenage students going home for Christmas.

The narrow gauge train filled with students and peasants taking their goats and chickens to market in Catanzaro sped out of a tunnel, careened through a sharp curve and onto an ancient stone bridge when disaster struck with a sickening lurch that tore up the tracks.

The engineer screeched his locomotive and the remaining coach to a halt high above the swollen Fiumarella River and saw the twisted and splintered car on the river bank below, its steel plates split open, spilling death into the rain.

Authorities said the engineer was being "detained," the usual procedure in any Italian railway accident. He was being questioned about reports he was driving the train at "excessive speed" over this roller coaster route in the center of the toe of Italy's Boot.

The train was en route from Soveria Manneli, 2,600 feet above sea level, to Catanzaro, 1,150 high. The 27 miles of railroad winding dangerously along viaducts and tunnels in this part of the Appenines is like a scenic railroad.

U.S., Britain Decision Due On Test Site

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States hopes to reach a decision with Britain in about 10 days on whether this country can begin planning for possible atmospheric nuclear tests on Christmas Island, a disputed territory in the South Pacific.

U.S. officials, reporting this today, said the island, which both the United States and Britain claim, was one point of discussion between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President John F. Kennedy at their Bermuda conference this week.

They agreed that both countries would prepare for possible atmospheric tests, which Russia resumed many months ago, but would put off the "final decision" on whether to go through with them.

Model Is Being Held In Death Of Her Baby

An attractive, blonde San Francisco model, under guard today at Marin General Hospital with a childbirth infection, has been booked on suspicion of slaying her infant boy moments after his birth in Sausalito.

Booked in absentia at Marin County jail on murder suspicion was Antoinette (Toni) Wahlen, 23, admitted mother of the mutilated infant found yesterday in a garbage can in Sausalito.

The tiny body, punctured with 17 stab wounds, was found at 10:30 a.m. by two garbage men at the cottage of KFRC disc-jockey Bob Colvig behind an apartment house at 121 South Street.

Colvig, 46, questioned for several hours yesterday by Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, denied knowledge of the grisly find. He admitted Miss Wahlen had spent last Friday night at his home, however, and had told him she had a miscarriage during the night.

Miss Wahlen was arrested yesterday afternoon at her San Francisco apartment by Sheriff's Inspector Guido Battaglia and Inspector Donald F. Midyett of the district attorney's office. She told officers she had given birth to the baby in Colvig's home, then stabbed the baby with the same paring knife with which she cut the umbilical cord.

Garety said she insisted that the radio announcer knew

Village Fair Stores Robbed

Four stores in the Village Fair in Sausalito were burglarized of at least $415 in cash, police disclosed today.

The thief or thieves broke into the shops Thursday night or early yesterday, but the city's small police force was too busy on the baby (found in garbage can) case to make a public report before today, Officer Michael Berney said.

He reported $25 in cash from the Armstrong Travel Service, on the second floor, $90 in cash taken from The Wooden Shoe, and $300 to $400 in cash taken from Kjell of Norway, both on the third floor. Also on the third floor the Manzanita Shop was broken into but because the owner was not present the loss was not learned.

In all cases, merchandise appeared to have been left alone, Berney said. Marin Deputy Sheriff Edmond D. Mauberret obtained fingerprints and was checking them, Berney said.

I-J IS TAKING CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY OFF

There will be no Independent-Journal published Monday, as employees get the day off for Christmas.

Banks and most other offices, including the post office, will be closed. Parking meters also will be on holiday.

Most Marin students already are on holiday vacation, and not due back in classes until after New Year's Day.

Yank Berlin Chief Blocked

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist border guards today barred U.S. Berlin commandant Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II from East Berlin in what the Americans called a "calculated affront" by the Russians to rupture existing four-power contacts and intensify tensions.

Watson is the ranking American military official in Berlin. The Communist refusal to pass a Western allied commandant was unprecedented and was considered all the more "provocative" because Watson had notified the Russians in advance of his trip.

Watson was driving to headquarters of Col. A. V. Solovyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, in the East Berlin district of Karlshorst to protest against East German interference with official American traffic across the East-West border.

Watson, in his general's uniform, was accompanied by two civilian aides and an interpreter. His official car was halted by the striped steel pole recently installed by the Communists at the Friedrich Strasse crossing point.

California Leads In Traffic Deaths

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California led the nation today in the grisly race among the states to see which one tallies the highest traffic death total over the Christmas holidays.

Thus far 15 persons have died in traffic accidents throughout the state since 6 p.m. yesterday. Nationwide, 134 persons have died violently on highways.

Extra precautions were taken by police departments in the Bay Area.

U.S. Budget Message Will Show Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's budget message to Congress next month will show a surplus of about 500 or 600 million dollars, officials indicate.

But this modest surplus—brought about through a tight check on military spending—could easily become a deficit should any of several "ifs" come to pass, the officials added.

They indicated proposed spending for the 1962-63 fiscal year will run about 92 billion dollars. Income, despite increased tax collections resulting from rising personal incomes and business profits, probably will be estimated at about the same figure, they said.

As recently as two weeks ago, unofficial guesses were that the military budget would run about 50 billion dollars. But the Army, Navy, Air Force Journal, an unofficial but authoritative publication, said Friday defense requests have been trimmed to 48.5 billion dollars compared with the current budget of 46.85 billion.

A 92-billion-dollar budget would be about three billion more than the current fiscal year program, which is expected to produce a deficit of 6.9 billion.

The precarious balance of the new proposal depends on several factors, officials say. Two of them are:

Tshombe Appears Stalling

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Another showdown over Katanga secession loomed today after refusal by the provincial cabinet to act on President Moise Tshombe's unity pact with the central Congo government.

The Katanga cabinet declared itself incompetent to authorize Tshombe's agreement with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula after listening Friday to a report on their meeting at the U.N. base at Kitona. A communique said it had "decided to put its ratification of the accord before the National Assembly—the sole valid authority on such matters."

The action led observers in Elisabethville to speculate that it may be the initial step in the ultimate rejection of the pact by the Katanga regime.

Majority sentiment of the Katanga Assembly remains to be determined, most of the assemblymen having faded into the countryside with the fall of the capital to U.N. forces during the undeclared two-week war.

Tshombe asserted that Assembly ratification would take at least 10 days.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

New Envoy To U.S.

MANILA (UPI) — President-elect Diosdado Macapagal today announced the appointment of Emilio Abello as ambassador to the United States. He will succeed Gen. Carlos P. Romulo.

Sources close to Macapagal said Romulo, who has been on home leave since November, would be offered the presidency of the University of the Philippines. Romulo previously had indicated his desire to retire from foreign service.

Macapagal also named Jacinto Borja, former governor of Bohol Province, as chief of the Philippine mission at the United Nations. He will take over the post of Ambassador Francisco Delgado, who resigned recently.

Danced Out Of Job

BOSTON (AP)—A 19-year-old college girl, employed as a temporary clerk in the South Postal Annex, demonstrated the twist, the new dance craze, for several hundred coworkers.

Soon the whole department was a maze of twisting postal clerks.

Enter the boss. "Stop that twist," he shouted.

"You are a disturbing influence," he told the girl. "You're fired."

The girl was not identified.

G.E. Injunction

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — The federal government has asked an all-inclusive permanent injunction banning the General Electric company from conspiring to fix prices or rig bids on any item it manufactures.

The request for the injunction, filed yesterday in U.S. District Court, covers a range from a small household light bulb to a part for a guided missile—so long as someone else manufactures the same item.

The action was taken, the Justice Department said, because of G.E.'s proclivity for persistent and frequent involvement in anti-trust violations," and because the public "is entitled to comprehensive equitable relief—without waiting for it (G.E.) to engage in additional conspiracies."

Laurence I. Wood, G.E. vice president and general counsel, commented in New York that the action was "unfair, unreasonable and unnecessary." He said it "seeks orders to prevent the company from doing what it has no intention of doing."

Crosby Condition

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bing Crosby was expected to be up and around today showing only minor effects from severe stomach pains that caused him to be hospitalized temporarily in San Francisco yesterday.

The 57-year-old croner's wife, Kathy, said yesterday, "He's a little green around the gills, but otherwise all right."

"He's apparently got Asian flu," she said following the couple's flight here from the Bay City.

Tests Called Bad

NEW YORK (AP)—Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon says it doesn't make any difference who does it—"nuclear testing would be bad for the whole world. . ."

Menon commented last night after the announcement that President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had agreed they should prepare for resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Menon, departing for home, said: "I hope it is not the beginning of a chain of tests."

Spellman Denounced

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Communists denounced the visit here of Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, as a provocation designed to cause trouble in the city.

The East Berlin newspaper, Der Morgen, in a story headed "Spellman Is No Angel," said the cardinal would bless American soldiers in a midnight mass tomorrow to prepare them for anti-communist "adventures."

The communist newspaper called his visit a "bad omen" and "anti-Christian." It said the "false prophet" would illegally encourage American soldiers in violation of all standards of morality.

Spellman will arrive here tomorrow afternoon by air from West Germany on his annual Christmas visit to American troops overseas.

Terrorist Attacks

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — French police said today that new terrorist attacks in the past 24 hours have killed 12 persons and wounded 29 throughout Algeria.

The attacks were blamed on the Secret Army Organization (OAS), a group of anti-government terrorists who have killed dozens of Algerians here and in France in the battle to keep Algeria French.

Yesterday's attacks were marked by explosions of plastic bombs—the OAS's favorite weapon.

In one incident, two Algiers Moslems were killed and five wounded when terrorists hurled a hand grenade into a cafe and then sprayed the wrecked room with machine gun fire.

Reds Kill GI

SAIGON (UPI)—An American GI and three South Viet Namese soldiers were killed yesterday when a land mine planted by Communist rebels blew up an Army truck near Duc Toa, 14 miles west of Saigon. Six Viet Namese were wounded.

The American, whose name was withheld until his family has been notified, was an enlisted member of the U.S. military advisory group in South Viet Nam.

Friday's victim was the first American reported killed in this country since July, 1959, when a major and a master sergeant were killed by Communist terrorists at Binh Hao Air Base.

Graham Crusades

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — More than two million persons attended the four Billy Graham crusades this year, the Billy Graham Evangelistic Assn. has announced.

The crusades were held in Great Britain, Florida, Philadelphia and St. Paul, Minn.

The association said 62,758 persons came forward to make "Decisions for Christ" at the crusades.

Indoor Skiing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Indoor skiing may become a new popular fad. Schine Enterprises plans to set up 1,000 such centers over the next three years. Thick nylon pile, mounted on rollers will be used to simulate snow slopes.

Kennedy Again Near His Stricken Father

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President John F. Kennedy, once again near his stricken father, begins a Christmas holiday with his family today.

The president hurried to St. Mary's Hospital yesterday immediately after winging in from two days of talks in Bermuda with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. He found his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, had improved since he left two days ago.

Hospital medical authorities said they were confident the elder Kennedy would survive the stroke that felled him last Tuesday. But they expressed concern over whether he would recover from the paralysis that affects his right leg and arm and the left side of his face, including his speech.

The 73-year-old former ambassador's illness left the big, closely knit family's Christmas plans up in the air.

The president, with no business scheduled for today, was expected to visit his father. His brothers, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Edward Kennedy, returned to the hospital last night during a rain. They kept a vigil there along with their cousin, Anne Gargan of Boston, who had been playing golf with the elder Kennedy the day he was stricken.

The president was met by his wife, Jacqueline, who accompanied him to the hospital. They spent about 30 minutes in the third floor suite. The president had no comment before or after the visit.

Then they drove alone to the ocean front home of Mr. and Mrs. Capton Michael Paul, friends of the family. The president had planned to spend the holidays at the estate before the elder Kennedy suffered his stroke. Caroline and her year-old brother John Jr. were installed there last week.

Three of the president's sisters were at the hospital yesterday when he arrived—Mrs. Sargent Shriver, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Peter Lawford.

Physicians at the hospital have declined to be quoted directly concerning the probable effects of the stroke.

They said that if a patient responded in 24 to 48 hours he could regain full use of limbs and faculties. In most cases where paralysis is caused by a blood clot on the brain, they said, recovery is less complete the longer it takes to regain use of arms and legs.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, who visited the patient, said he told Kennedy, "You're going to be all right" and that Kennedy replied, "I know I am." The hospital did not confirm that Kennedy spoke.

Sam Rayburn Seat Election Slated Today

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Voters in the late Sam Rayburn's congressional district sought to elect his successor today.

The seven-county 4th District is the sixth least-populous in the nation with 216,371 residents. Rayburn for years persuaded the legislature to keep the district intact.

Running for his seat are conservatives Conner Harrington, 36, and Plano Farmer, a Republican. Jack Finney, 45, a Greenville real estate operator calls himself a conservative Democrat.

The other four running are R. C. Slagle Jr., 51, a Sherman attorney who was the speaker's county campaign manager; Roy G. Baker, 47, a Sherman attorney who received two federal appointments through Rayburn; State Sen. Ray Roberts, 48, of McKinney, at one time the speaker's secretary; and David Brown, 41, a Sherman attorney who ran against Rayburn 13 years ago

U.C. Gets Funds For Chemistry

BERKELEY (UPI)—The University of California recently received $956,000 to help finish a new high school space age chemistry course.

The course is the product of work by the Atomic Energy Commission chairman, a team of chemists and teachers and 44 California schools.

It is being developed through CHEM Study, nationwide Chemistry Education Material Study now in its second year.

The new course puts heavy emphasis on the energy and rate of chemical reactions.

TREASURER FOR CHURCH TAKES FUNDS

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police today sought a 72-year-old church treasurer charged with grand theft in the disappearance of $14,000 in church funds.

Andre L. De Lafayette, a trustee and treasurer of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, was named in a warrant yesterday after wiring his wife that he had fled to Puerto Rico.

The telegram read:

"Have gone. Destination New Orleans by Tuesday. No return. Lost forever. Regards. Across to Puerto Rico. Andre."

$75,000 Suit Filed In Death Of Bus Driver

A damage suit for $75,000 has been filed in Marin Superior Court for the death of a Greyhound bus driver, who was killed by a car just south of Richardson Bay Bridge one year ago.

Anna Nabers, widow of bus driver Julius Nabers of San Rafael Meadows, is suing M/Sgt. Edmund M. Thompson, 46, of Mill Valley.

Nabers, 57, was standing beside his stalled bus on the evening of Dec. 23, 1960. He was directing a second bus, which was about to give his stalled bus a push, when a station wagon driven by Thompson struck him.

Mrs. Nabers contends that carelessness and negligence on the part of Thompson resulted in her husband's death.

Greyhound has already filed an $18,100 suit against Thompson.

Argentine President Speaks Out For Peace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"I am one of millions committed to the cause of democracy in the Western Hemisphere," President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina declared last night in a major address on the eve of his suddenly arranged meeting with President John F. Kennedy at Palm Beach, Fla.

He is scheduled to spend tonight in New Orleans before leaving tomorrow for Palm Beach for his conference with Kennedy.

"Argentina is a nation born to be free and we eternally believe in freedom," he said to an enthusiastically applauding audience at a dinner sponsored by the World Trade Center.

His call for democratic principles in a hemisphere beset by communistic pressures came at the end of an address which set forth the economic needs of Argentina and Latin America.

"We do not believe that economic strides are enough," he said. "We want to tell the world that, yes, misery does not exist in Argentina. But we are more proud of the democratic spirit of our people, the religious faith of our people, the religious faith of our families, the religion of freedom that we practice."

He was introduced by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

SAN RAFAEL CHURCH'S NATIVITY SCENE

Final adjustments are made on the hand-made Nativity characters in front of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael by George Whittier, 6, left, of San Rafael and Carl Schiller, center. Schiller built the scene of plywood and paper patterns. As elders of the church, he and Forney Knox erected the scene. (Independent-Journal photo)

Marin Churches Schedule Christmas Day Services

Christians of every denomination will gather in Marin County churches this weekend in celebration of the birth date of the founder of their faith.

Traditional Christmas services have been planned by all Christian churches throughout the community.

The Congregational Church of San Raafel will hold its first services in the newly built sanctuary at 8 North San Pedro Road on Christmas Eve. New members will be welcomed into the congregation at morning services scheduled at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. tomorrow. A special observance of the Fourth Sunday in Advent will be held at 5 p.m.

The observance of Christmas at Marin Lutheran Church, Corte Madera, will be held at special services on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. The annual Christmas Candlelight Service, held at 11 p.m. tomorrow, will include a sermon, "God's Light Shines," delivered by the Rev. Gerald W. Carlid and a musical program presented by the Chancel Choir. There will be Christmas Eve services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Christmas Day. Services will be at 11 a.m.

A Communion Service conducted by Rev. Donald H. Baldwin will highlight the Christmas Eve services at 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. at the First Methodist Church of San Rafael.

A concert of Christmas carols rung on the Tower Bells at the San Francisco Theological Seminary will summon worshippers to candlelight services at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo on Christmas Eve at 10:45 a.m. Within the church a recital of Christmas music featuring Bach's Orgelbuchlein, Reger's Weihnachten and the Samuel Barber setting of Silent Night will begin at 10:30 p.m. The services will include the reading of "The Inn That Missed It's Chance" by the church's new minister, Dr. Henry Kuizenger. Over 300 "luminarias" will be lit during the service and each worshipper will receive a lighted candle as he departs from the services. Dr. Kuizenga will conduct duplicate services on Christmas Day at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. His sermon topic will be "What Shall I Give Him?". Music for all services will be provided by the Chancel Choir.

The Church Sunday School program featuring Christmas carols tonight at 7:30 p.m. will start the Christmas program of the Community Presbyterian Church of San Geronimo. Christmas Eve services will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The combination Candlelight and Communion Service will include a rendition of Handl's Messiah by the church choir and the offering of white gifts.

There will be no confessions heard on Christmas Eve at St. Hilary's Catholic Church in Tiburon. Confessions will be held today from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. A High Mass will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m., 9 a.m. and noon. Christmas hymns will be sung at the 10:30 a.m. services.

"Christ, The Hope of the World," will be the theme of the Candlelight Song Festival at Grace Lutheran Church, Novato, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. Rev. Arthur Koehler will speak on "Christ as the hope to a nuclear and rocket age perplexed in the mists of confusion." The musical aspect of the program, under the direction of Mrs. Will Garl, will emphasize hymns by Martin Luther including Luther's "From Heaven Above to Earth I Come." The regular Sunday morning service and Sunday School will be held as usual at 11 a.m. tomorrow. There will be Christmas Day services at 11 a.m.

A Family Circle of Carols and Lessons will open the observance of Christmastide at St. Paul's Episcopal Church of San Rafael tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. A Choral Candlelight Service of Holy Communion, preceded by 15 minutes of carols, will follow at 11:30 p.m. Regular Sunday morning services will be held tomorrow at

Christmas Offering For Mission

The Mill Valley Methodist Church will devote its Christmas offering tomorrow to a "Costa Rica fund," to be used to send a public health team of four men to do medical missionary work in Costa Rica next month.

Eugene Zucker, chairman of the church's membership and evangelism commission, said today that $800 of the $1,000 needed has been collected to purchase a second-hand four-wheel drive vehicle for the team's use in their work. All other monies collected will be used for items such as medicine and toward scholarships.

The four men, all of Mill Valley, will leave Jan. 6 on their three-week trip. All are men with families and are taking their vacation time for the mission. They are Dr. Fred Burkhart, a doctor of medicine; Douglas Billion, a physiotherapist; Dr. Belman Maddox, a dentist, and Rev. G. Russell Oaks, church pastor.

Most of the work will be with people in villages who need medical treatment, Zucker said.

Marin Catholics Mark Ember Day

Marin County Catholics need only fast today instead of Christmas.

Bishop Hugh A. Donohue, administrative of the San Francisco Archdiocese, has made this announcement regarding the observance of Christmas Vigil:

"Since Christmas falls on Monday . . . the faithful of the archdiocese may fulfill their entire obligation of fast and abstinence this year by observing only the Ember Day (today)."

KTIM-FM WILL BROADCAST 'MESSIAH'

On Christmas Eve beginning at 8 o'clock, KTIM-FM will broadcast a 90-minute presentation of the "Messiah," announced Hugh Turner, station manager.

It will be sponsored by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and will be sung by the Messiah Choir of Independence, Mo. The choir has given 65 performances of the famous Handel oratorio since 1916.

San Rafael Girl Makes Bow At Ball

Among the 20 debs who made their bow last night at the annual Winter Ball at the Claremont Hotel was Heidi Hickingbotham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hickingbotham Jr. of San Rafael.

Heidi and her escort, Christopher W. MacDonald of Hillsborough, were among those honored beforehand at a dinner in the Grecian Room, given by the Hill Branch of the Children's Hospital of the East Bay, the ball sponsor.

Heidi made her bow wearing a bouffant white faille gown trimmed with roses at the waist, and was accompanied by her father.

After the presentation at the ball the girls joined their escorts at the end of the room, having enjoyed the first dance with their fathers. Supper was served in the Empire and Gold rooms afterward.

Crockers Hosting Traditional Christmas Eve Dinner, Party

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Traditional are the Christmas Eve dinner Herb and Dorothy Crocker of San Rafael give each year and their open house Christmas Day. With the Crockers and their youngsters tomorrow night will be Dorothy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schrader, Herb's mother, Mrs. A. B. Crocker, his brother, George Crocker and his wife, Dorian, and Dorian's mother, Mrs. Hopkins Dodge, all of San Francisco and Dorothy's two uncles, Fred Doerr of La Jolla and Henry Doerr of Sioux City, Iowa. The latter, potentate of Abu Bekr Temple, will be one of the dignitaries at the East-West game, a benefit for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children Dec. 30.

A goodly contingent of friends will attend the Crockers' open house.

LARGE GOLD keys ornamented the invitations Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Masonek sent out for their open house tonight at their Greenbrae home. They'll entertain about 160 guests.

A NATIVITY WREATH highlighted the open house Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Archibald gave at their Ross home Sunday. The wreath was made by Mrs. Joseph (Lola) Joseph, erstwhile Marinite, who now lives in Garmisch, in the Bavarian Alps in West Germany. She said making of Nativity wreaths is an old German custom and that they are used in decorations of most of the homes in the German village. The wreath made of fresh greens, firs mostly, is suspended on a pole which brings the wreath to within two or three inches of the top of the table. It is outlined with candles, ribbons float from the center.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald will be with her stepdaughter, Mrs. Hugh Miller and her husband in Danville for Christmas Day. They will be joined by Mrs. Archibald's sons, Robert Ham of Menlo Park, Donald Ham of Atherton, their wives and children.

JUST IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS, a daughter arrived for Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rorty (Nancy Carruthers) of Palos Verdes. The baby, who has been named Marcia Ellen, was born Dec. 10. She is the sister of Bruce, Melitta and Leslie Rorty. Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Charles P. Carruthers of Kent Woodlands.

AT SEA on Christmas will be a number of Marin families. Aboard the Matsonia when it sailed today for Hawaii from Los Angeles were Dr. and Mrs. Alex L. Finkle of Kentfield and their daughter, Joan, and son, Paul, Mrs. Lewis J. Kerlin of Kent Woodlands and her children, Martha and John, Mrs. Ivan Swigard of Ross and her three sons, Philip, Stephen and Kent, Mr. and Mrs. David Adams of San Anselmo and their sons, David Jr., Douglas and Robert.

Aboard the Lurline, which sailed from San Francisco yesterday for Acapulco, Mexico, on a special Christmas-New Year's holiday cruise were Hood Burnett of Kentfield and his daughter, Miss Dorothy Burnett, Mrs. Jean S. Bordi of Fairfax and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cervelli of San Rafael.

Luciano Picciolini of Kentfield, sailed from New York for Europe aboard the Italian Line's flagship Leonardo Da Vinci. He'll tour the continent for six months.

THE RALPH NOAHS of Belvedere have been entertaining at several holiday parties. Tomorrow they will give a luncheon for their son, Rex, and his pals. On Wednesday they gave a dinner for their daughter, Gail, and her friends before the young set went on to the St. Stephen's Assemblies. Last week Kay entertained 36 guests at the luncheon of the newly formed Raccoon Branch of Marin General Hospital Auxiliary at the Dock in Tiburon. Ralph and Kay have also hosted several dinner parties for eight during the holidays. Tuesday with their daughter they'll leave for Wawona at Yosemite where they'll meet a group of friends for the holiday week. With Gail will be Roxie Taft and Kathy Moore. Rex will go to Squaw Valley where many of his friends and families will be including Dr. and Mrs. William J. Ferguson and the Robert Davies.

Meadowcroft Christening Tomorrow

Christening of their first grandchild, the fifth generation of the family to worship at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito, will be the highlight of the holiday season for Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rossman of Sausalito.

The baby, Dean Stewart Meadowcroft, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Meadowcroft of Forest Grove, Ore., formerly of Mill Valley, is being named for his godfather, Dean Stanley Lesser of Burley, Idaho. His godmother will be Mrs. Leland Ammerman of Ashland, Ore.

The christening will take place tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service at Christ Church, and afterward the Rossmans will entertain about 30 guests at a christening party in their home.

The baby's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Meadowcroft of Walla Walla, Wash., also formerly lived in Mill Valley. His great-great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Porter of Sausalito, were the first generation of the family to live in Marin County.

THE HOLIDAY HOSTESS

To Stuff Or Not To Stuff Early Answered By Expert

First in a series of articles on holiday entertaining and its aftermath.

By BARBARA HOSMER

How are you doing? With four days to go before The Day, your life between then and now ought to be fairly well planned. Salads to make, rolls to be done, cranberry fixings readied if your family will eat turkey, and finally the bird himself. And once the hump is passed — all having partaken amply of the entree—the demands for a suitably special dessert must be met.

By this time the hostess would welcome even more than a visit from old St. Nick a visit from Bess Myerson to come to clean her sink. In fact, I can think of no more worthy volunteer work at this time of year than "cleaner uppering" of the kitchen and front room by family and good friends in the most emphatic use of that adjective.

But back to the turkey. According to Marin's home advisor, Virginia Porter, and her associates, many families are wondering if it is all right to stuff the turkey the day before it is cooked, or to stuff it ahead and freeze it.

Generally the home advisors do not recommend this because it isn't likely you can meet the necessary safety precautions in your home kitchen. You can't stuff the turkey and then "flash freeze" it before danger of spoilage can occur, as do commercial processors who have the right equipment. At home, Mrs. Porter cautions, if warm dressing were put into the bird spoilage organisms could begin to grow before dressing or bird were chilled sufficiently.

Instead, if time is a factor (and it usually is), Mrs. Porter suggests preparing all the ingredients of the dressing ahead of time.

First Aid For Weary Hostess Given In Holiday Home Tips

The season of wild disorder, spilled crumbs, torn tinsel and weary mothers is hard upon us and a few helpful hints from the home economists may be welcome.

Modern ranges are designed to perform for holiday crowds as well as everyday family use. To get the best baking results, place oven racks at the second and fourth shelf positions from the bottom of the oven. This allows for good circulation of heat when baking cookies, pies or cakes. For large roasts, such as a turkey, use the lowest shelf position. Food should never be set on the oven bottom.

Home economists suggest this treatment for candle stains on fabrics: scrape the wax off with a table knife, place the stained spot between white blotters, press with a hot iron, rub the spot with turpentine, and wash the fabric in warm suds.

Instruction books that accompany Christmas appliances make rewarding reading. The manufacturers of appliances go to considerable pains to help the users of their appliances get the most from them. You'll discover features on your new appliances that are time savers and, you'll get to know your appliance, and this can lead to reduced service calls and inconveniences.

You can make 40 to 50 cups of coffee at one time if you have a large saucepan and a giant burner on your range. Bring 2½ gallons of water to a rapid boil, add a pound of coarsely ground coffee, tied loosely in two bags (allow plenty of room for the coffee to swell), reduce the gas flame until water bubbles, and cook 10 to 12 minutes. Do not boil. Remove the bags of grounds and serve immediately.

The familiar recommendation of wine service at "room temperature" is probably a hand-down from bygone days when wines were stored in cool wine rooms. In today's heated homes and apartments, it is advisable to cool wines to the point where they taste best to you. Beverage racks inside the door of the refrigerator make an ideal place to cool tall bottles. The wine may be placed in the refrigerator just an hour before serving. Then it will be cool but not chilled.

She will graduate in June from Mills College. She is a member of the Northgate Juniors. Mrs. Vance Lines of Pasadena and the late Mr. Lines and the late Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wells Good of Honolulu and Ross are her grandparents.

The future benedict was graduated from the San Rafael Military Academy and the University of the Pacific in Stockton. He is serving with the U.S. Coast Guard in Alameda and will leave in February to attend Officers' Candidate School in Yorktown, Va. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of Mill Valley and the late Mr. and Mrs. Guido Ciampi of Sonoma.

A BABE IS BORN—There was music in heaven and the Star of Bethlehem. The three wise men set out to find the newborn Saviour. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace and good will to men."

Story Of The Three Wise Men When They Arrived In Bethlehem

By DOC QUIGG

A star stood up in the east, and three kings of Orient gathered their riches and set out on a long journey westward. Their train of camels plodded slowly under the weight of great bags of treasures—gold vessels and bars, jeweled pieces, frankincense and myrrh.

Their names were Balthasar, Melchior, and Gaspar, and they were wise men. And all along the way, when they stopped to rest the camels, they made answer to gaping crowds with one sentence: "A King is born."

And they came even unto Jerusalem, heralding that word which had visited them of a newborn king. "For we have seen his star in the east," the eldest, Balthasar, said, "and have come to worship him." And then they passed on along the road.

In the City of David, which is called Bethlehem, a small boy stood in a doorway of a streetside house that same silent night. His cheeks were sunken from hunger, his clothing tattered and filthy. His large eyes were sick with famine, but they stared in wonder over the rooftops down the crooked old street.

For he too had seen a star. It shone with bright Orient brightness, and soft lights flickered in his eyes when he looked at it. And as he watched, it moved until it was standing up over a stable down the street.

From afar there was a babble as of many voices, and straightway up the street came shepherds from the fields outside the city.

"Boy, where is the stable in this street?" they asked. "We have come away from our flock, for the Lord hath made known to us that a Saviour is born. The sign we seek is a Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

The boy pointed a thin arm down the street, and the shepherds made haste away.

And then the boy's eyes got wider still, for up the street came a train of camels bearing heavy burden. The great beasts' hooves beat loudly on the old street as their drivers urged them on. The three kingly men at the head of the train wore raiment richer than the boy had ever dreamed of, and he shrank back into the doorway as they glanced at him.

When the caravan reached the stable, there were Mary and Joseph and the Babe, and the shepherds stood aside from the manger in awe. And Balthasar and Melchior fell down and worshipped the Child. And then suddenly they noticed that Gaspar, the youngest, had not entered with them, and they were ashamed for him.

They ordered his treasure from the train to be presented along with theirs. And when at length they departed for their own country, down the crooked street, they found the other wise man.

He was sitting in the doorway and beside him was the boy, chewing in hunger on a loaf in his left hand. With his dirty right hand he held onto the king's fine robe. And in his lap lay a gift—not gold, but a toy.

The other two rebuked Gaspar. "For shame," they said, "to have turned away from the wonder of this night at the manger—and you, who held steadfast to the star on the long journey."

And he answered them: "I will abide here awhile. I am content. At the last moment, I followed another star — one that stood up in my heart."

Singing Tree Marks Yule In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A "Christmas tree" of a most unusual kind makes its fifth appearance in Charlotte this Yuletide season.

Christmas trees are commonplace during December and they range from small artificial trees to huge living trees. But the local tree is not only alive; it sings.

The "tree" actually is a three-story steel and wood framework decorated with hemlock rope, some 100 pounds of hemlock and balsam boughs and lights.

Members of the 85-voice Charlotte Choral Society perch on wooden platforms on the sides of the tree with one singer serving as the "angel" atop the tree, about 30 feet from the ground.

The society's repertoire for the "Singing Christmas Tree" consists of a wide variety of Christmas music ranging from familiar carols to little-known folk songs.

A Girl Scout chorus augments the choir for some numbers and actors stage pageants as background for several of the songs.

The singers are amateurs and come from all walks of life, representing a cross-section of Charlotte and neighboring communities.

C. W. Upchurch, a local car dealer and a director of the Choral Society, first conceived the "Singing Christmas Tree" five years ago.

He asked a local engineering firm to design a permanent, more elaborate tree. After several weeks of work, the firm came up with the present tree which was constructed in 150-pound sections for early erection and dismantling.

No White Christmas —But Very Merry One

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If you should happen to be in the Fiji Islands for Christmas and that present under your palm tree turns out to be a whale's tooth, consider yourself flattered.

That's because a Fiji Islander couldn't pay you a greater compliment than to give you a whale's tooth for a Christmas present. It's the most priceless gift he knows of.

But that's only one of the exotic customs that surround the Christmas season in the South Pacific. Matson Lines has done some research on the subject and came up with some curious bits of information.

Fijians celebrate Christmas Day beginning at 2 a.m. with carol singing in the villages.

Groups go from bure to bure —the thatched hut homes— and don't stop until every villager is awake and joining in song. Comes morning, everyone goes to church in shifts. Those who stay at home tend the special pit ovens where the community feast of suckling pig is being roasted.

Christmas in Tahiti has a French touch. Sidewalk cafes are trimmed with greenery and Yuletide toasts are drunk in French wine. Along the Papeete waterfront, there's a Christmas carnival every year, complete with a roulette wheel.

Christmas Hawaii-style features caroling — barefoot, if you please—from hotel to hotel. And you won't find many people serving hot drinks in that climate, either. You'll probably drink your Yule toasts in passion fruit punch.

A traditional Christmas Eve service is held at Kawaiahao Church, only the hymns are sung in Hawaiian. Since the language is phonetic and easy to pronounce, anyone can join in.

In New Zealand and Australia, Christmas comes during the hottest days of summer. Grass court tennis championships, surf carnivals and yachting regattas are some of the holiday attractions. And you might find yourself eating your turkey dinner and plum pudding out of a picnic hamper at the beach.

In Samoa, Christmas is popular, but New Year's is the big holiday. Heads of the family traditionally rush outdoors at midnight and fire shotgun blasts into the air. Song and "siva-siva" dance troupes make the rounds, collecting refreshments at their frequent serenade stops.

Winning $25 awards were Sm/Sgt. Leslie H. Bailey, T/Sgt. William E. Whitehead, S/Sgt. Roderick C. Bishop, A/1C Leslie H. Bailey and A/2C Earl T. Schubert.

The $15 awards were received by First Lt. Joseph S. Jackson, Sm/Sgt. Francis X. Conlon, M/Sgt. Carl M. Gibson, M/Sgt. Robert E. Elijah, T/Sgt. Raymond K. Gunner, S/Sgt. Johnnie L. Marshall, S/Sgt. Anthony Giamibaluo and A/2C Richard A. Brooking.

The $10 awards went to First Lt. Joseph S. Jackson, T/Sgt. John S. St. Jacques, T/Sgt. Lawrence R. Lawson, A/1C Edward C. Cary and A/2C Willie L. Porter.

PLAYOFF ON TV

Oilers Choice In AFL Championship

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The defending champion Houston Oilers settled down on the battle site today, still favored to defeat the challenging San Diego Chargers for the 1961 American Football League Title.

The game between the Eastern and Western Division winners in the hot AFL race goes on tomorrow before a capacity house of 34,500 in Balboa Stadium and a national television audience (ABC network).

The Oilers, who must rely on the passing talents of shrewd quarterback George Blanda and the power running of former All-America halfback Billy Cannon, remained a 3-point pick to score a repeat title win.

The Chargers, who surged to 11 straight victories and then hit the downgrade in two of their last three games, apparently must bank on one weapon—the throwing arm of their brash young quarterback, Jack Kemp.

In sharp contrast, Houston got off to a dismal start, switched coaches and then, under Wally Lemm, blazed to nine straight triumphs.

Included was a 33-13 explosion over San Diego in Houston a month ago, which was when the Chargers began to show signs of cracking.

Over-all, the Oilers have a 10-3-1 record and coach Sid Gillman's Chargers are 12-2. The second, and most recent loss a week ago, was a shocking 41-0 affair to the Boston Patriots.

The Boston thing was the first time San Diego fans in person had seen their Warriors lose since they moved here this year from Los Angeles.

LINE WORRY

Coach Gillman openly predicted San Diego would win this one.

But the status of one of his fine defensive linemen, 310-pound Ernie Ladd, was a source of extreme worry. Ladd apparently has some personal problem. Without this 6-foot-9½-inch tall giant, San Diego's defense is badly hurt.

Lemm viewed the prospects with customary caution. He said he looked for a close game and a San Diego team improved over a week ago.

A poll of the other league coaches showed that three—Sammy Baugh of New York's Titans, Buffalo's Buster Ramsey and Hank Stram of the Dallas Texans—thought Houston would win.

Frank Filchock, Denver; Maury Feldman, Oakland, and Mike Holovak, Boston, were more or less fence straddlers.

Blanda, long time star of the Chicago Bears in the National League, won the passing championship. He hurled 36 touchdown passes and gained 3,340 yards.

Kemp, who was shunted around the NFL before becoming the Charger leader, ranked third with 15 touchdowns and 2,686 yards.

Cannon blasted out 948 yards as rushing leader, while the leading Charger runner, Paul Lowe, finished fourth with 767 yards.

Trade Me Or Use Me, O'Dell Tells Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Billy O'Dell, who wants the San Francisco Giants to trade him unless he pitches more, got the word today from Manager Alvin Dark that he will see "a lot of action" next season.

"I think a lot of O'Dell and he definitely is a part of this ball club," Dark said yesterday. "He showed me that he really can pitch and he'll be doing plenty of it in 1962."

O'Dell had fired off a "play me or trade me" salvo earlier in the day from his home at Newberry, S.C.

"I want to be a starter," said the veteran left-hander who had a 7-5 record last season and won all four of his complete games. "If the Giants don't let me pitch any more than last season, I hope they let me go somewhere I can."

Dark would not elaborate when asked if O'Dell would be used as a starter.

"He'll see plenty of action," Alvin responded.

Other members of the Giant management could not be reached.

O'Dell hurled a total of 130⅓ innings last season while compiling a 7-5 record in his second year with the Giants. He had an impressive finish, going the distance to pick up his last three triumphs. Prior to that, he had been used mainly on a spot basis.

TV Bout Tonight At St. Nick's . . . Where Else?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tonight's yuletide TV fight is aptly slated for St. Nicholas Arena, and former welterweight champion Emile Griffith says he'll play Santa Claus and give Isaac Logart a sock—a knockout sock.

Speedy young Griffith of New York is very serious about the kayo sock because he no longer trusts decisions, and because a defeat tonight would deprive him of another shot at the 147-pound crown on March 24.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner has assured 23-year-old Griffith that if he beats Cuban Logart, former top contender, he will get a title "rubber match" with champion Benny (Kid) Paret, also of Cuba, at Madison Square Garden in March.

Tonight's nationally televised (ABC) 10-rounder is being staged at little St. Nick's because of an ice-hockey game at the Garden.

Griffith vows to let his own fists be the ring officials from now on and to win every fight on a knockout because in his latest TV bout on Sept. 30 at the Garden, he lost the welterweight title back to Paret on a very unpopular split version.

A poll of 22 sports writers at the Garden ringside favored Griffith 18-4.

BROWN JOINS BROWN, BROWN WITH BROWNS

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The Cleveland Browns were ready for all sorts of confusion today after signing tackle John Brown of Syracuse.

Brown, Cleveland's third draft choice after the 1960 season, becomes the third Brown with the club. He joins head coach Paul Brown, for whom the team was named and all-pro fullback Jim Brown.

Brown (the coach) said he considers Brown (the lineman) one of the finest prospects to come along in recent years. Brown, who stands 6 feet, 2 inches and weighs 248 pounds, will be tried as an offensive guard or tackle.

The Browns outbid the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League to obtain Brown.

Brown is also the second Syracuse player landed by the Browns this week. Cleveland announced Thursday night that All-American halfback Ernie Davis will sign a contract next week.

Hoak Roughed Up, But Nabs Youths

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Third baseman Don Hoak of the Pittsburgh Pirates told police three youths roughed him up on a downtown street last night before he collared two of them and turned them over to police.

Police said Hoak told them this story:

The youths stopped Hoak on a downtown street and taunted him about the Pirates' second division finish last season. One youth pulled a knife and the other two shoved Hoak.

After a short tussle, the three youths ran down the street. Hoak chased them and grabbed two in a restaurant. He took them to the city-county building and asked a guard to call police.

TAKE A HOLIDAY

Santa Stiff Arms Rose Bowl Drills

PASADENA (AP) — Santa Claus stiff-arms the Rose Bowl preparations of Minnesota and UCLA into Christmas stillness most of the next two days.

The Gophers, behind the Uclans in practice time, dashed through their final double workout today and were scheduled for a single drill Sunday afternoon before quitting for a Christmas Day respite Monday.

UCLA had a light drill today and then coach Bill Barnes excused his charges for a Sunday-Monday holiday. Tuesday, the Uclans shift from their own campus to Long Beach City College for the final phase of practice for the New Year's Day contest with Minnesota.

Coaches Murray Warmath and Barnes, their staffs and their films and libraries of plays started taking back seat to the holiday today.

The wives of eight Minnesota players were to arrive by plane to join their husbands. After UCLA has a brief late morning drill, Barnes' boys all were free to spend Sunday and Monday at home. The nine married Uclans can bring their wives if they wish to the team's Lafayette Hotel headquarters in Long Beach when practice resumes Tuesday.

The switch in practice locale was planned by Barnes to give the Uclans the feeling the Rose Bowl encounter was not just another home game.

Tomorrow night portly Minnesota trainer Lloyd Stein will stuff himself into Santa Claus garb and distribute presents to the Gopher players at a Christmas party sponsored by the school. Watches will be given Gophers making their first Pasadena appearance, while the 22 players who visited the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day and suffered a 17-7 defeat by Washington will receive cameras.

Another Christmas party will be given the Gophers Monday night by the Tournament of Roses committee. Santa, in this case, will be Rose Queen Martha Sissell and her six princesses, who will give binoculars to the new Gophers and transistor radios to the repeaters. The tournament committee will be Christmas host to UCLA Tuesday night at Long Beach and the same seven Rose Bowl beauties will hand out binoculars to each Uclan.

Then it will be back to work Tuesday, with both Warmath and Barnes trying to bring their squads to a peak in the six days that will remain before the 48th Rose Bowl game. Barnes promised his Uclans "a light workout; they'll run about 10 miles."

Warmath indicated he may continue contact workout for the Gophers through next Wednesday or even Thursday.

Van Brocklin To Coach West Stars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Minnesota Vikings Coach Norman Van Brocklin, for years a popular figure here as quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams, returns in a new role.

The Dutchman today was announced as the head coach of the West against the East in the annual Pro Bowl game Jan. 14 featuring National League all-stars.

Van Brocklin's opposite number for the east will be Allie Sherman, rookie coach of the Eastern Division champion New York Giants.

Cal, Stanford Wins, Play Again Tonight

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Once beaten University of Santa Clara aims for the winning path again tonight in a basketball battle against the Hurricanes from Tulsa.

The sharpshooting Broncos had won seven straight before their last outing a couple of nights ago with Wichita. The Shockers shocked Santa Clara 60-48.

California and Stanford, both winners last night, exchange opponents on their home courts. The Bears entertain St. Louis and Stanford hosts Nebraska.

Dick Smith's 15 points helped California trip the Cornhuskers 50-49. Center Tom Dose tossed in 19 points to lead Stanford to a 71-61 win over St. Louis.

Brigham Young shaved University of the Pacific 69-67 and Oregon downed Fresno State 84-72.

In other action tonight, St. Mary's Gaels meet Utah at Salt Lake City in their first test since dropping the championship at Portland's City of Roses tournament.

University of San Francisco's Dons are out to snap a four-game losing streak against Hawaii in San Francisco.

Coffman Counts His Blessings, 1,700 Of Them From 60 Colleges

HANLEY

As he has done on Christmas Day for the past 37 years, Bill Coffman will gather 48 new members of his official East-West football family about him Monday and present them with engraved watches and lifetime Alumni Cards.

"When I begin to count my blessings," the 77-year-old managing director of the East-West game will tell the 48 members of this year's teams, "I now list more than 1700 of them from 60 different colleges.

"Welcoming new members into our family on Christmas Day is a thrill I cherish. It is a wonderful experience.

"Your Alumni Cards carry both a sentimental and practical value. You already know their sentiment since your visit to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. Their practical value is that they entitle you to two tickets forever more to the East-West game."

For almost four decades now Coffman has been associated in the public's mind with the Shrine game. Long before he became its guiding genius, Coffman was quite a man and lived a life that made Horatio Alger seem a piker.

IN TWO adventurous years at the turn of the century, Coffman successively was a hobo, a Bowery bum, a singing waiter and a sheepherder.

In 1902 he was shanghaied onto a sailing ship, got to love the sea and before quitting it sailed three times around the Horn and once around the world as able seaman and mate.

He survived the 1906 San Francisco earthquake to become a day laborer, then YMCA swimming instructor in 1911-14 and manager of famed old Sutro Baths 1914-17.

IN 1917 Coffman hit his stride as a salesman. He became the No. 1 peddler of typewriters west of the Mississippi and ultimately his company's top western executive. In 1928 he began a four-year term as Pacific Association president of the AAU and wound up that career in 1932 as assistant manager of the U.S. Olympic swimming team.

Coffman can spin yarns about San Francisco's old Barbary Coast and his action-filled life that are absolutely fascinating. But of all his experiences, the closest to his heart is his long association with the East-West game.

"MY GREATEST privilege," he says, "has been to know the more than 1,700 stars who have played in the East-West games. They came from many places and walks of life, yet they were all alike in their intense desire to make a better future for crippled children.

"Success of the East-West game is due entirely to the gallantry of the players and coaches."

And to a gallant gentleman named Bill Coffman.

Rams Sign Olsen, Utah State Star

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams have signed Utah State's giant tackle, Merlin Olsen, to a 1962 contract. He is the sixth consecutive Ram draft choice to be signed by Elroy Hirsch, general manager of the Los Angeles club.

Hirsch had to out-duel Denver of the American Football League to get Olsen's signature. Hirsch's record is the best of the 22 general managers in the two pro leagues, and especially significant because he was not the high bidder in each instance.

"It takes more than money to land a football player," says Hirsch, "but we're lucky here because many people want to live in California and they like the Rams' off-season job program."

Saints Score 9th Straight Home Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Saints, with a solid hold on third place in the Western Division of the American Basketball League, have won nine straight games on their home court.

The Saints downed the last place Hawaii Chiefs 117-113 last night for a sweep of their five-game series against the Islanders.

Center Jim Francis topped the scoring with 30 points, 27 of them in the second half. His effort gave San Francisco its highest point total of the season.

Ken Sears dropped two free throws in the closing seconds to clinch the victory.

TAX FACTS

Charitable Deductions Made In 1961

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPAC

Christmas is the time for giving.

Contributions, to be deductible for 1961, must have been paid in 1961. It is not enough to have pledged to contribute at a later date. Payment must have been made in 1961.

P. J. WIKEL

Your charitable contributions are deductible up to 30 per cent of your adjusted gross income provided that at least 10 per cent is to churches, educational institutions or tax exempt hospitals. Otherwise your contributions are deductible up to 20 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Payments in money or property are equally deductible. If a contribution is made in property, the deduction is the fair market value of the property at the time the contribution was made. This has interesting possibilities. Assume that you purchased stock for $500 in 1955 and you gave this stock to your church in 1961 and its fair market value at the time of the contribution was $1,000. You receive credit for the contribution of $1,000 but you do not pay tax on your gain of $500. It does not matter if the recipient of the contribution immediately sells the property. All forms of property may be contributed: real estate, stocks and bonds, automobiles, furniture, fixtures, equipment, clothing, etc.

Merchants can contribute items from their stock in trade and the deduction is the fair market value of the merchandise contributed. Merchants also are required to adjust their cost of goods sold to eliminate the cost of the merchandise contributed, so that they do not get a double deduction.

Not 'Merry' Christmas For Woman

A Corte Madera woman will not have a very "merry" Christmas this year but the person who found $1,500 she lost yesterday may be able to be a Santa's helper.

Mrs. Theresa Doherty of 40 Alta Way, Corte Madera, on her way to deposit 15 $100 bills at the bank, lost the envelope which contained the money. She said she could have lost the money "anywhere in the Corte Madera Shopping Center." She estimated the loss occurred about noon.

The distraught woman thought she might have deposited the money in the mail box at the center while she was mailing some last minute Christmas cards.

But a check at the Corte Madera post office shortly after the mail pick-up revealed no envelope or money.

"It's too bad," said Postmaster Edward J. Victor. "The mail box would have been the safest place to lose the money."

nothing of the slaying, and that he was not the father of the child. Garety declined to reveal the name of the father.

Colvig was released late yesterday after being closeted with the district attorney most of the afternoon. "No charges will be filed against Mr. Colvig unless new and incriminating evidence turns up," Garety said.

On the advice of his attorney, Nathan Cohn of San Francisco, Colvig declined to take a lie detector test.

Miss Wahlen told officers she awoke in the middle of the night last Friday with labor pains. She delivered the baby unassisted in the bathroom, she said, then stabbed it repeatedly because she was afraid it would cry.

She then crawled down the hillside steps to the garbage can where she said she left the body after wrapping it in a towel and a plastic bag. The bath towel bore laundry marks matching those on Colvig's linen.

The garbage collectors, John Strayhorn and David Mathews, called police immediately after finding the baby's body.

Miss Wahlen said she told Colvig she had had a miscarriage but had "taken care of it."

She said she spent several days at the disc jockey's apartment recuperating from the ordeal of the birth. Following her arrest yesterday, she was taken to Marin General Hospital where doctors said she would be confined for several days.

Found in the apartment were several medical instruments which Colvig said belonged to an uncle who was a doctor.

Under questioning by the district attorney, he admitted having been intimate with Miss Wahlen since their first meeting four or five months ago in a San Francisco bar. On Friday night, he said, they had a few drinks in San Francisco then came to his apartment where she slept in the bed and he on the couch.

He could not be the father of the child since he had known Miss Wahlen for such a short time, Colvig told Garety.

Authorities located the striking model through an eyeglass case, found in Colvig's apartment, bearing her name and address.

SLAYING

Adjustment Center on Oct. 25, 1960 and had been released for the first time last Nov. 14.

This is the second unsolved murder in the two-week wave of slayings at the prison. Prison authorities are still searching for the murderer of Marcel Arthur Perez, 19, Los Angeles car thief, who died shortly after being stabbed by an unknown assailant last Saturday.

Two inmates, Robert Q. Dorado and Alfred Lara H. Jiminez, have been charged with the slaying of Los Angeles narcotics peddler A. A. Nevarez whose body was found under the athletic field bleachers Dec. 12.

Another inmate, Michael Ison, is suspected in the death of Thomas Devers, stabbed in the presence of a correctional officer in the prison gymansium Monday, just after he pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a dope smuggling conspiracy charge.

Morals Case Hearing Set

Seminary student Stephen Anthony Benson, 18, of Berkeley admitted in Marin Municipal Court yesterday he had exposed himself to two girls, one in Greenbrae and the other on Oak Manor Road near Fairfax.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas set Jan. 11 as the time to hear a report from the probation office and for sentencing.

Benson, who attends school in Mountain View, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer George Alberigi of San Anselmo Police. An 11-year-old girl in Greenbrae and a 10-year-old from Fairfax complained to their parents that a man had exposed himself in his car. Their descriptions of Benson and his car led to his arrest.

Murder Trial Set Thursday

Albert Bernard Cote Jr., 34, former San Rafael claims adjuster jailed here last year for attempted rape, will go on trial for attempted murder in Anaheim, Orange County, next Thursday.

Cote, who disappeared from his San Rafael home last month after leaving a "suicide" note, shot and wounded police officer Sam Charles Punter, 29, on Dec. 7 near Anaheim when Punter tried to prevent Cote from forcing a girl into his car at gunpoint.

Held in lieu of $105,000 bail, Cote will be charged with assault with a loaded pistol with intent to commit murder, attempted kidnap and assault with intent to produce bodily harm to a police officer.

Police said Cote is still being questioned about the unsolved shooting of two El Segundo police officers in 1957.

MESSAGE

The decision is to keep on trying and the voices go back to work. Next day John leaves ICU to a regular bed upstairs.

A nurse follows a doctor into the room. In her arms is an 11-month-old baby, it's golden red hair barely sticking above the blanket. It was having trouble breathing.

In a bed beyond, a 12½-year-old girl, whose artery should have been the size of your little finger but actually was the size of a match, battles back from an operation which had had only a slim possibility of success.

And because this is a real place, with real people and realities, success is not assured. The brother of a consul from a foreign government is lost to disease, war ravages, imprisonment; snuffing out the ray of hope for a group of strangers in a far land who had populated the waiting room.

But even as hope ebbed, it flowed again for his bed was newly occupied and a new set of trusting and praying relatives replaced the grieving.

There will be no sprigs of holly to brighten the intravenous feeding bottles which will nourish the ICU occupants on Christmas Day. But the spirit of Christmas, hope for the world, will be there that day and tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

For a Very Happy Holiday
Best Wishes

Spectator or Participant?

Three simple words — "Let us pray"—are the cue to the service you take part in when you go to an Episcopal Church.

The Episcopal service is called a corporate service—that is, we all take part in it. Thus, when the minister says, "Let us pray," it is a common effort. The prayers he uses are almost all printed in the Book of Common Prayer. We don't think it's any more unusual to pray out of a book than to sing out of a book. You see, we do it together.

That's one of the things we believe you'd enjoy about being an Episcopalian—the feeling that you're part of things. In the primitive church, in fact, clear back in Old Testament times, the main part of the religious service was praise and worship of God and earnest prayer for his aid and forgiveness.

The sermon—or instruction part of the service was secondary. In many churches today, however, the service is centered around the sermon. The congregation sits back to listen or to be spectators, rather than being actual participants in the service.

In the Episcopal Church, we join together in the worship and praise of God. You are invited to join us tomorrow at the service in the Episcopal Church near you.

Steel Market Picks Up Some

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Recovering from a sharp slump, the steel industry in 1961 gradually picked up market strength and finished the year at a moderate production pace.

Labor troubles in the auto industry, followed by less-than-expected orders from this No. 1 customer, doomed hopes of a big surge in the fourth quarter.

But steel demand on other fronts generally held firm and took up part of the slack.

A controversy over prices and labor-management sparring preliminary to 1962 contract talks figured prominently in the steel picture.

Unemployment due to technological advances continued to be a problem, even though over-all employment improved in the second half.

The outlook for 1962 is clouded because of the forthcoming labor negotiations. Steelmen expect a good year, but a strike of any duration could upset the forecasts.

For the first six months at least, it is anticipated that demand will be sustained at high levels as steel users build inventories against a possible midyear work stoppage.

The basic steel industry entered 1961 operating below 50 per cent of estimated capactiy. It wasn't until April that the recession, born in the summer of 1960, definitely ended.

In the final week that month the nation's mills melted 1.85 million net tons of steel, operating at about 65 per cent.

Production see-sawed the remainder of the year, largely in the 70-75 per cent range. Output hit 2.13 million tons—about a 75 per cent rate—in the last week of September. This was the most for any week since May 1960.

With final statistics yet to be reckoned, it appeared total 1961 production would fall just shy of the 1960 mark of 99.28 million tons—sixth best year in steel's history.

During 1961, industry leaders repeatedly stated a need for higher prices to offset increased employment costs. But they held the line — for the third straight year — under government and competitive pressures.

Early in September, President John F. Kennedy appealed for steel price stability as a hedge against inflation.

Later, prices of aluminum—a major competitor—dropped one to two cents a pound.

Competition from other materials—plastics, concrete, glass—and foreign steelmakers also played a part in the decisions to stand pat on prices.

The industry last raised prices an aevrage of $4.50 a ton in 1958. Since then members of the United Steelworkers have received two contract wage hikes totaling 14 to 23 cents an hour.

If prices remain steady, company negotiators will have a strong talking point in bargaining with the USW for new contracts to replace the ones expiring June 30.

Just what the union will seek hasn't been spelled out. One important issue will be job security.

David J. McDonald, USW president, feels the best remedy for technological displacement of Steelworkers is a shorter work week—with no reduction in pay.

Supervisor Action Seen On Transit

Condemnation of the present rapid transit plan excluding Marin, but preparations for keeping this county in rapid transit affairs without cost unless justified by participation, are expected from Tuesday's session of Marin County supervisors.

Letters will be read from the county counsel, county administrator and the Marin Industrial Development Foundation all making substantially the same general points as to what may and should be done.

Administrator Alan Bruce, though expected to be off with his family for a one-week snow country vacation, will be represented by letter saying that action of San Mateo County doesn't produce any new elements requiring change of already discussed program which might include:

1.—Disapproval of the "final" plans which don't include Marin.

2.—Efforts to speed up the scheduled Golden Gate Bridge feasibility report by a review group of three engineers.

3.—Expression of readiness to stay, for the time being, in the Rapid Transit District. But—

4.—Consultation with a view to legislation in Sacramento continuing Marin as a "planning member" without taxation unless included in actual routing.

Bruce's view is that if San Mateo persists in withdrawal, and Marin is able to participate through use of the bridge, the situation would put this county in a favorable position as competitor for economic development.

Tuesday's session starting at 1 p.m. will be a composite of the usual two days weekly since Monday is a holiday. Public Works affairs, planning and communications are all on the agenda together with continued matters including report on what should be done about the damage claim for civic center stop-work.

Board Gets Letter On Transit Plan

If worst comes to worst, Marin ought to stay in the Bay Area Rapid Transit District as a "represented but non-paying member," according to recommendations from the Marin Industrial Development Foundation to the Marin County Supervisors.

But preliminary to this, says a letter issued over signature of Daniel C. Davis as president, the supervisors should:

1.—Disapprove the transit plan unless it is modified to include Marin.

2.—Urge Matt A. Graham and Leland S. Murphy as Marin directors on the bridge board to do all possible to speed a decision from the engineering board of review of rapid transit feasibility.

In any event the review report should be far enough ahead of the deadline date of next April 27 to allow the county to act on inclusion, says the letter.

In case things don't work out favorably in these respects, the letter recommends that "appropriate legislation should be sought in the forthcoming session of the state legislature" to keep Marin in on a costless basis because "if this county ever becomes divorced from the district, it may very well be impossible to get back in."

The letter notes that rapid transit "is an expensive facility to acquire" but that even more impressive are the costs of staying with roads, termed inefficient for transportation of large numbers of persons and removing much property from tax rolls.

New Models

DETROIT (UPI)—Auto manufacturers are using more aluminum, zinc and plastics, but less steel in new models. Steel usage in the new models has declined by about 3 per cent from last year.

Government Spending Gives Lift

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government spending, a key factor in the economic recovery of 1961, will give business another big lift in the coming year.

Federal purchase of goods and services are expected to total at least 62 billion dollars, up sharply from a 1961 level of 56.9 billion. That would be the biggest year-to-year advance since the 1953 military buildup associated with the Korean war.

There is a fair chance that the spending boom will carry even farther. Some experts here think the level of purchases may go as high as 63 billion dollars.

The greatest upward thrust will come during the first half of the year if the spending pattern develops as forecast. The rate of increase should begin to taper off by summer because of Kennedy administration efforts to produce a balanced budget. Even, so, federal outlays will increase throughout 1962.

Federal purchases of goods and services directly reflect the government's contribution to the gross national product—the GNP — the most comprehensive economic indicator. The GNP measures total output of goods and services.

Here is how the government's share of the GNP increased in 1961, with all figures at seasonally adjusted annual rates:

January-March 54.7 billion dollars; April-June, 56.6 bililon; July-September, 57.4 billion; and October-December, 59.1 billion.

For 1962, here is an unofficial projection based on talks with economists at several agencies:

January-March, 60.8 billion dollars; April-June, 61.7 billion; July-September, 62.4 billion; and October-December, 63.1 billion.

One major factor behind the rising trend was President John F. Kennedy's decision to bolster conventional military forces. Although missiles and other sophisticated weapons for nuclear war are fantastically expensive, added funds for conventional forces are spent more quickly.

A marked step up in the arming of conventional forces could add new millions to the projection of 1962 federal purchases. This appears to be the likeliest area for further expansion.

Shopping Area Guard Wanted

Jack Lasonder, owner of the Wooden Shoe Gift Shop, said today he and several other store owners in the Village Fair are contemplating petitioning landlord Rob Rose to employ an armed guard for the building.

Reason, he said, is because of recent burglaries.

Lasonder reported that Thursday night someone entered his shop through a window, pried open the showcase and cash box and took about $90 in cash.

Lasonder said Kjell's and the Travel Bureau, in the same building, were entered. He said other places had signs that someone had tried to force entry.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 23, the 357th day of the year with eight to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1783, George Washington resigned from his Army commission and retired to his estate of Mount Vernon.

In 1928, a permanent coast to coast radio network (NBC) was established.

In 1953, the former head of Russia's dread secret police, Lavrenti Beria, was liquidated.

In 1958, Pope John XXIII broadcast his first Christmas message to the world.

A thought for the day: It is written in the New Eestament according to the Gospel of St. Matthew: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you."

Crippling Blizzard Howling Across Midwest Into Iowa

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crippling blizzard howled across the Midwest into Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin today, whipping up six-foot drifts that blocked roads and stranded thousands of holiday travelers.

The storm, which struck on the first day of winter, was so violent in parts of southern Iowa and northern Missouri that snowplows were pulled off the roads for several hours. Hotels and motels were jammed with stranded motorists.

Snow whipped by winds up to 45 miles per hour piled up the eaves of houses in Des Moines where traffic was paralyzed. Airports were closed and power telephone lines felled.

Another storm, which had nearly blown itself out during a three-day rampage in Utah and Montana, pushed across the Northern Plains with renewed fury. Blasts of cold arctic air gave it new punch as it sent temperatures skidding below zero in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Readings during the night included -9 at Minot and Bismarck, N.D.

Both storms wheeled eastward toward the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley, assuring a vast central region of a cold, white Christmas.

The new blizzard in the Midwest dealt a surprise blow yesterday to Kansas and Missouri, dumping up to 10 inches of new snow in some sections. The storm was originally forecast as rain, possibly changing to snow. Buses were stalled at Faucett, Gower and Maryville, Mo., by drifting snow.

Most of the roads in northwest Missouri north of St. Joseph were blocked at one time last night.

Blowing snow stranded 125 school children in Tarkio, Mo., where eight inches was measured. More than 25 school buses were unable to reach their rural destinations in southern and central Iowa even though many schools let out early.

Packed snow made driving hazardous in most of the storm area where roads were passable. Parts of Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas were glazed with ice that formed when drizzle was frozen by icy blasts.

Buses and trains, loaded with homeward bound travelers, were running hours behind schedule in the storm areas. The job of clearing highways was hampered by stalled vehicles.

The snow belt extended into the eastern Great Lakes and southward into the Ohio Valley, where it was mixed with freezing rain. Rain drenched parts of the Northwest, changing to snow in the mountains.

Mostly fair weather prevailed over the rest of the nation with temperatures along the West Coast ranging from the 30s in the north to the 60s in southern California. The line of freezing temperatures extended as far south as Texas and eastward across the southern Appalachians.

Mary Slater Sues Husband For Divorce

Tiburon real estate man William A. Slater III was sued for divorce by his socialite wife, Mary, yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Slater charges him with being extremely cruel and causing her grievous mental pain and suffering. She seeks community property, $500 per month for their two children, William, 6, and Michael, 3.

Mrs. Slater says their property holdings include two cars, an interest in the firm of Johnstone-Slater Inc. in Tiburon, home at 21 Windward Road, bank accounts and other assets. She says he is capable of earning more than $1,000 per month.

They were married in Pasadena on Sept. 12, 1953. She alleges he separated himself from her about August of last year, and they have not lived together for 14 months.

Job Opening Told At Hamilton Base

Applications of men wishing to become aircraft overhaul inspector, W-11, in the Air Reserve Technician Program, are being accepted at Hamilton Air Force Base. Pay is based on a rate of $3.05 an hour as compared with $2.98 at McClellan and $2.77 at March.

JUDGE DIES — U.S. District Judge William H. Atwell, 92, died last night in Dallas, Tex. Atwell, who unsuccessfully disputed the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation, had been hospitalized since Dec. 11 with what doctors at the time called a mild stroke. (AP Wirephoto)

Pollution Delay Checkup Granted

The City of Belvedere was granted permission to discontinue monitoring the waters of Belvedere Cove until next July 1 by action of Regional Water Pollution Control Board No. 2 in Oakland.

A sewage disposal plant now under construction will be completed by July, a Belvedere report pointed out. Service will then be by Tiburon Sanitary District. Both have been monitoring under control board orders up to now.

A progress report from Marin County's Sanitary District 2 told the board that a start has been made on laying a sewer line to serve the Greenbrae Boardwalk area. This was found satisfactory by the board and the report was accepted.

Altogether Woman Awakens Novatan

Robert Worden of 1186 Simmons Lane, Novato, was dozing on the couch about midnight yesterday when he awoke to find a nude woman standing in front of him, covering herself with one of his shirts.

Realizing he wasn't dreaming, Worden called Novato police. The woman, age 47, told police she had been picked up by two men as she hitch-hiked north from San Francisco and was raped somewhere on Simmons Lane, then tossed out of the car without a strip of clothing on her. Police recovered her clothing from the road and took her to Novato Hospital.

Doctors found a small bruise on her upper left arm but no other evidence of attack.

Inspector Harold Sleezer of the sheriff's office said she could not recall just where the attack took place. She said the men's names were Larry and Gary.

She had no home address and was not sure where she was headed, said Sleezer. She told officers she had been picked up for vagrancy in Santa Rosa on Dec. 15.

She was put up for the night at the Marin County Jail and left yesterday morning, heading north.

The sun radiates energy at the rate of half a million billion billion horsepower.

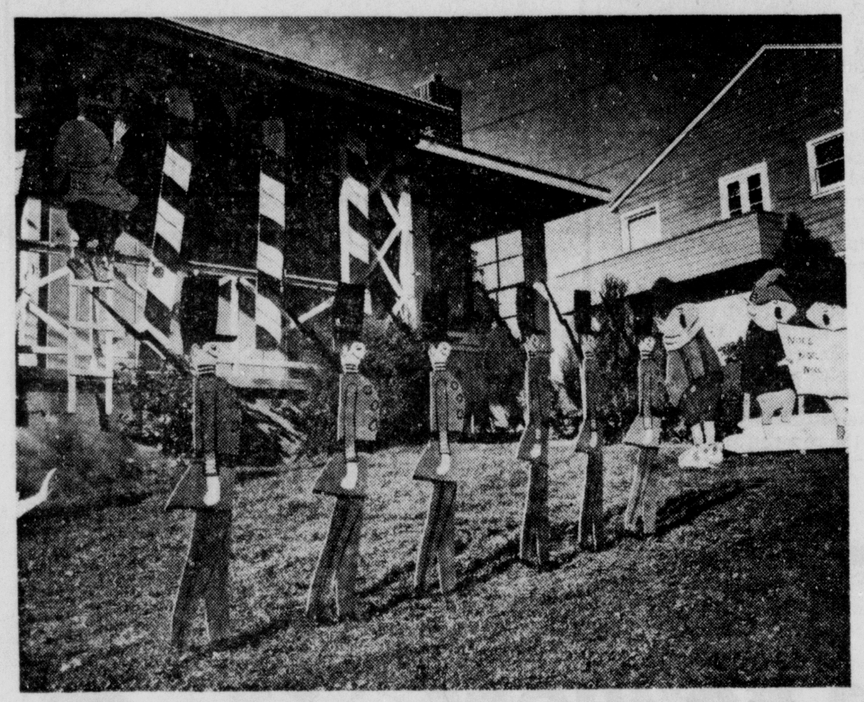
TRIO IN THE GRASS — Richard Bosen and Donald Rubke of Terra Linda shared in winning fourth award of $10 in countywide outdoor Christmas decoration contest with church and other buildings and two plump Santa Claus figures as background for trio of young singers.



SMILING SOLDIERS—Line of contented-appearing musketeers and dwarfs singing and climbing up the house won third prize award of $15 for A. J. McDevitt of Fairfax in annual outdoor Christmas decoration contest. Total of 45 entries were judged as to Christmas theme, artistic merit, originality and ingenuity.

Yule Decorations Runner-Ups Named

Forty-five colorful entries in the 13th annual county-wide outdoor Christmas decoration contest made awarding of prizes difficult, the judges of the Marin event said today.

The contest sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce was judged by James F. Donald, James Lane and Rob Casassa of the junior chamber and Mrs. Winnie Donald.

Santa Claus and his reindeer soaring over the lawn of G. W. Robertson of 342 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, ran away with first prize of $50. Photo of the entry was published in yesterday's I-J.

Today the I-J publishes the second, third and fourth prize winners.

Mary Molander of 2247 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, was awarded second prize of $25 for her attractive church and three figures carrying candles.

A. J. McDevitt of 5 Arcangel Court, Fairfax, was judged third prize winner for his smiling soldiers of an earlier ere shouldering muskets on the lawn while a group of dwarfs variously sing carols and climb up the side of the house.

The fourth prize of $10 was shared by Richard Bosen and Donald Rubke of 582 and 590 Heather Way, Terra Linda. Their layout spread over their undivided backyard included large banners with greetings of the season, two Santa Claus figures, a church and other structures and a smiling trio of carol singers.

The judges selected winners and entries receiving honorable mention on four bases: Christmas theme, artistic merit, originality and ingenuity.

Entries by seven persons won honorable mentions: Charles Stithen of 285 Adobestone Court, Marinwood; William McCallister of 4 Richardson Court, Mill Valley; William Vandergriff of 247 Alameda de la Loma, Loma Verde.

William J. Beighly of 109 La Pasada, Santa Venetia; Lee Rogus and John Rea of 188 Maestro Road, Novato; and Tony Joseph of 293 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

RUNNER UP—This little church with tiny candle-bearing figures won second prize of $25 for Mary Molander of San Rafael in 13th annual countywide outdoor Christmas decoration contest sponsored by Independent-Journal and San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Objections Rise Over School Sites

Members of the San Geronimo Valley Master Plan Committee expressed dismay at a meeting Thursday night that Tamalpais Union High School District trustees are thinking of two possible school sites "smack in the middle" of San Geronimo Valley land shown as a golf course on the valley's master plan.

Mrs. Georgette Vilas, who attended the Tamalpais board meeting last Monday, reported the trustees didn't even know a master plan for the valley had been adopted.

One of the proposed sites in the San Geronimo area is down on the master plan for school purposes, she reported.

This is Site 4, on the Ottolini Ranch.

The committee decided to write to the Tamalpais trustees to point out the existence of a master plan and object to locating any school on the intended golf course.

Tamalpais trustees were assured a lot of company when they meet at 1 p.m. Jan. 7 at Sir Francis Drake High School for a San Geronimo Valley site tour.

51st Year On Job

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP)—J. B. Elam, 82, has started his second 50 years as a judge at the polls in Spring Creek precinct in Prince Edward County. He has missed only one general election in 52 years, and that time he was a justice of the peace and ineligible to serve.

Sausalitans Protest Over Apartment

Sixteen Sausalito residents have sent a letter to Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk asking that their constitutional rights be protected with regard to the 60-unit apartment development of Albert Lovett Corp. on South Street.

According to co-spokesmen Miss Winona Pierce and John J. Gallas, the letter makes these points:

1. The city council has acted without justification to permit the developers to use to their personal gain 15,600 square feet of three city streets.

2. The city has permitted the firm to fill 60 feet of beach on the property on which the apartments are being built while at the same time it has spent $66,000 to purchase Shelter Cove lots nearby to preserve the beauty of Sausalito.

3. The corporation has taken liberty, with a variance granted by the city council, with the 32-foot height limitation and is thereby destroying property values for nearby citizens.

They say the city refused an 18 inch raise over the height limitation for the nearby portofino apartments.

Since the efforts to secure satisfactory and reasonable answers from the city have been fruitless, said Gallas, and since they have met with "impatience, irony, implied rebukes and caustic comment," the residents who live near the development are seeking help from Mosk.

School Board Tax Meeting

Mill Valley School District trustees have agreed to meet about Feb. 15 to discuss setting a date for an election to ask for an increase in operating tax rate of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

At this meeting they also plan to decide upon how much of an increase to ask. The Independent-Journal reported Wednesday that trustees planned to set a tax increase election for about Feb. 15.

Not Beating Around Bush

SHARON, Pa. (AP)—There's no time for beating around the bush for Paul Moore.

If he's not pounding his beat as a policeman in Sharon, he's following the beat as a second violinist with the nearby Youngstown, Ohio, Philharmonic Orchestra.

The 30-year-old father of two patrols Sharon streets from 5:45 a. m. until 1:45 p. m. daily. Then, twice a week he rehearses or performs with the Philharmonic from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

Letting Daughter Wear Her Weird Hair-Do Won't Hurt

(Q) "My daughter is 16. Her friends have weird-looking puff hairdos. They're nice girls from good homes, but they certainly look odd! We won't let our daughter wear her hair that way. She has cried for two days over it. Are we too tough with her?"

C. L.

(A) Perhaps you are. Is she a responsible girls? Does she show good judgment most of the time? If so, you might well relax. Styles matter greatly to teen-agers. Your girl needs the chance to experiment, even if she makes mistakes. Her taste will improve later. Let her have her odd hairdo.

(Q) "Our boy is 6. Yesterday he had his first real fight. An older boy tried to take his ball. Our son doubled up his fists and went after him. Finally the other boy dropped the ball and ran. I intended to punish our son for fighting, but my husband told me not to. He said I could turn our boy into a sissy. Is he right?"

R. B. F.

(A) I think so. Normally most boys will fight for their rights. I think it proper that they should. Boys don't live in a gentle world, and they can be taught to be too timid. But don't let your son become a bully. Don't encourage him to fight unnecessarily. Let him defend the things which are important.

(Q) "Why should I put my breakable articles up out of the reach of my toddler daughter? Wouldn't it be better to let her learn by experience?"

MRS. K. T.

(A) I think you should put your breakables out of reach, because your girl has bad judgment. All toddlers do. They break things, cut themselves and burn themselves. Sometimes they even kill themselves, unless carefully protected. Experience is too harsh a teacher, at your girl's age, so be careful.

Study Of Reds

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Research Institute on Communist Affairs has been established at Columbia University to carry on intensive studies of relations and comparisons of communist states and movements throughout the world.

Good Idea For Sleepy Drivers

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — The sound of an auto horn may be the sound of life for many drowsy drivers, inventor H. Bruce Williams believes.

Williams developed a pedal-like device hooked to an auto's horn and attached to the floor next to the pedals. When a man drives on a long trip, he rests his left foot on the device. If he gets drowsy and his foot pressure relaxes on the device, the gadget honks the horn.

Williams contends the device will jar a driver back to wakefulness before he has a chance to go to sleep. He said a driver getting drowsy will invariably relax his leg.

'Joke' Book Good Seller

STANFORD (UPI)—Welton J. Crook, retired Stanford University professor of metallurgy, just for a lark wrote a book on the uses of the Chinese businessman's favorite computer, the abacus.

To his surprise, the little volume has sold more than 25,000 copies since it was printed in 1958.

Crook remarked that another work of his, "Metallurgical Spectrum Analysis," took him two years to write, cost him $800 to print "and I didn't make a red cent on it."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't Distort Meaning Of Those Special Bids

My last hand of the week from the international team trials in Houston a month ago is cited to teach a valuable lesson: Don't distort the meaning of a special bid. If you do, it will rear back and bite you.

Opening lead — ◇ 6

North's bid of two clubs over the opening bid of one notrump is known to tournament players as the Landy Convention, after Alvin Landy, of New York, who first dreamed it up. Experts use this bid to show length in both major suits.

South naturally assumed that his partner had a good fit for hearts, with nine or ten cards in spades and hearts combined. The jump to three hearts was quite ambitious but not outlandish.

What happened from then on was more weird than wonderful. South eventually went for a very unpleasant ride.

USEFUL BID: That special bid of two clubs after an opening bid of one notrump is very useful when you stick to the proper meaning of the bid. If your partner expects you to have length in both spades and hearts, with a sprinkling of high cards, that's what you should have when you use the bid.

Don't use a bid that has a special meaning when you don't have the right sort of hand. Unless you're a skilled hypnotist, your partner will get you into trouble by assuming that you're describing a hand that you don't actually hold.

Incidentally, don't be thrown off by that light opening bid of one notrump on the West hand. Many experts (including most of my own group) use such bids in tournament play. The weak notrump is very effective if you use it properly.

The bid of two clubs, asking for a takeout in a major suit, is effective against a weak notrump and also against a normal notrump. You'll get good results with it if you use it only when you have at least nine cards in spades and hearts combined.

DAILY QUESTION: Dealer, at your left, bids one spade, and your partner doubles. The next player passes. You hold:

♥ 9 8 6 4 3
♦ Q 7 4 3
♣ 10 7 4

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. This jump response is invitational, but not forcing. If partner has good values for his takeout double, he will move toward game. If he has a light double he can safely pass.

Instruction to Land Buyers

First see the land which thou intend'st to buy
Within the sellers title clearly lye,

And that no woman to it doth lay claime
By dowry, joynture, or some other name,

That may incumber, know if bond or fee
The Tenure stand, and that for each feoffee

It be released, that th' sellers be soe old.
That he may lawful sell, thou lawful hold.

Have special care that it not mortgaged lye,
Nor be entailed upon posterity.

Then if it stand in statute bound or noe,
Be well advised what quitt rent out must goe,

What custome service hath been done of old
By those who formerly the same did hold.

And if a wedded woman put to sale
Deal not with her unless she bring her male,

For she doth under covert barren goe,
Although sometimes some traffique soe we know

Thy bargain made and all this be done,
Have special care to make thy charter run

To thee, thy heirs, executors assigns,
For that beyond they life securely binds,

These things foreknow and done, you may prevent,
Those things rash buyers many times repent,

And yet when you have done all you can,
If youle be sure, deal with an honest man.

Spirit Of Christmas Still Abroad Among Us Today

The true meaning of Christmas is in danger of being lost in the shuffle of the present day world.

That's what artist Jack Hamm says in his cartoon for today, at right. And that's what many of us fear.

But if we lose it, it will be our own fault.

The spirit of Christmas IS with us.

All we have to do is recognize it.

Remember the circumstances of Jesus' birth? He was born in a stable because, although his coming was widely awaited, it was not recognized.

". . . There was no room for them at the inn," it is recorded in the seventh verse, second chapter of the Gospel according to St. Mark.

Last summer a Kansas teacher with his family made his way to Boot Jack Camp on Mt. Tamalpais.

"Sorry, we are all filled up. There is no room for you here in the camp," he was told.

As the family came back down the mountain toward Mill Valley, the brakes failed on their car.

A service station operator loaned them his own car so the teacher and his wife could take their five young children to supper.

They traveled all the way to San Rafael in futile search for a motel, hotel or place to set up their tent for the night.

In San Rafael, regrettably, they were refused permission to camp in a city park.

When they returned to Mill Valley they went in desperation to the police station.

The officer in charge had no luck finding room for them at an inn.

But he told them to go ahead and set up their tent in the city's ball park.

Like Joseph and Mary at Bethlehem 1,961 years ago, the Kansas teacher and his family found no room at an inn, but were suffered to set up camp in humble surroundings.

Most of us would react by remembering Marin as the place we had such a miserable time finding a place to camp, where there was no room at the inn.

But the Kansas teacher remembers Marin as the place where a kind and generous service station operator and a kind and considerate policeman went out of their way to be helpful, when help was most needed. And the Kansas teacher made his gratitude known to the Mill Valleyans in the Christmas season this year.

The 40th verse of the 25th chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew records that Christ himself said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

As we say, the Christmas spirit is abroad among us today; all we have to do is recognize it when we see it.

If we lose the Christmas spirit we will have only our own lack of perception to blame.

LOST IN THE SHUFFLE?

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for their unanimity in responding to the Nativity Scene protest by sending an "In God We Trust" penny to the complainant.

A BOUQUET to the Novato City council for seeking closer cooperation among cities and with the county government of Marin.

BOUQUETS to both Harry J .Cooper Jr., outgoing president of the Marin United Fund, and his successor, Donald Kreps. The United Fund drive in Marin overcame some major set-backs this year to go over the top in championship form.

A BOUQUET to John B. Ehlen of Sausalito for his long, long public service in county and city government in Marin, marked by another milestone as he ends his service as Sausalito city attorney.

A BOUQUET to Edward P. Ward of Tiburon on his election as president of the Marin County Real Estate Board.

BRICKBATS—we don't have any so close to Christmas.

EARN YOUR REPUTATION HONESTLY

This unusual notice was posted in a restaurant in Switzerland: "Diners who are tempted to steal silverware, ash trays and other objects belonging to this establishment are asked to do it discreetly. We want to preserve the good reputations of our clientele."

On the subject of reputation, William Shakespeare had this to say:

"The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is spotless reputation: that away,
Men are but guilded loam or painted clay."

The legitimate desire most people have for others' respect must be backed up by a willingness to make the sacrifices involved in keeping that respect.

While insisting on your own right to a decent reputation, recognize as well that other persons have a similar God-given right.

Pay more attention to the services you can perform for others than to enhancing your own reputation and you will have a good name with the Lord.

"For they loved the glory of men more than the glory of God."
(John 12:43)

Help me to imitate your example, O Jesus, in seeking Your Father's will before my own personal advantage.

Be Careful; Don't Extend Long Holiday Weekend To Eternity

WONDER WHAT TRUTH there is to the rumor that County School Supt. Virgil Hollis will have one of his former subordinates running against him in next June's election.

There's some indication that friends are backing Richard L. Foster for the post. He was assistant superintendent under Hollis, as you recall, then went to Daly City as schools chief. But conveniently enough, he still maintains residence in Greenbrae, which would make it simple for him to file.

COUNTY Administrator Alan Bruce appears mighty pleased these days, for several reasons. One is that his sister Jean just passed the bar examination and will probably be practicing in San Francisco.

POLICE CHIEF Charles Chiesa is still being ribbed about the new title bestowed on him the other day because of a typographical error. In a story on the fine work done by San Rafael police in arresting a couple of burglars, they referred to the chief as "Police Thief Chiesa."

BUT TO ERR is human. Even the local Scout Council slips up once in a while. They sent out Christmas cards in several languages including Morse Code. But the code, when deciphered read: "Merry Bhristmas."

A member of the local gendarme underwent a sinus operation, which turned out to be more than successful. All the gals are crowding around to get another look at the new profile. They're already calling him "John Barrymore of the police department."

IF YOU noticed a suspicious looking character crawling in and out of an apartment window at 34 Grove Street the other night, there's no need for alarm. It was just Carl Williams, normally an upright citizen, who just happened to be caught squirming horizontally through his own window.

Seems the cleaning woman thoughtfully locked his door for him. Trouble is, Williams didn't have a key for his door, and it's the type that won't open from the inside either unless you have a key.

MARIN County jailers are not as rough as they may seem. Best evidence of that are the Christmas cards that come in from former inmates. Several of them thanked the jailers for making life pleasant at the county hotel and wished the deputies a happy holiday season.

The only thing they don't add is: "I hope to see you again soon!"

ONE LAST reminder (and it's going to be the last for some of us)—Drive and smoke carefully over the holidays. It's gonna be a long weekend; you don't have to extend it to eternity. See you on New Year's?

Lesson From Paris Meeting: One Western Power Must Take Lead

ALTHOUGH THE NEWS from the Paris meetings has been meager and not particularly enlightening, it looks as if we have learned at least one of the facts of life about our alliance. It is that all of the Allies cannot move together, hand in hand and unanimously, but that one among them must take the lead, going back to the others for approval and consent.

The past six months have demonstrated that the four Western allies cannot negotiate as a team which will agree theoretically in advance on all of the questions which may arise in a practical negotiation. In the real world someone has to begin to negotiate to find out precisely what the negotiation is to be about. It is a mirage to expect the four Western powers to guess correctly in advance just what Khrushchev will ask and just what he will concede, and to have an agreed "position" on every guess.

IN PARIS LAST WEEK the meetings of the foreign ministers of the NATO Council seemed to have concluded that while the Western Big Four cannot negotiate now with the Soviet Union, the United States can take the lead in talking with the Soviet government. There is, of course, a big difference between "talking" and "negotiating," the difference being that in a negotiation the negotiator can accept proposition with reasonable certainty that his government will approve. In "talking," it is allowable to work out an agreement but not to conclude without fresh instructions from the partners concerned.

On the whole, this is the most sensible way to go about the business. Even if the French government were willing to attend a foreign ministers' meeting in the near future, it would almost certainly not be a good thing to try to deal with the Berlin question in a formal foreign ministers' meeting. Experience has shown how undesirable are such meetings with the large delegations, with the enormous press corps, with the long-winded speeches delivered for publicity purposes, and with the destructive and malicious leaks.

If negotiation is to be productive, it will have to be done in private—more or less in the spirit and the manner of the Rusk-Gromyko conversations during the autumn. The four foreign ministers can meet after there is substantial agreement on a working draft. They will only muddle things if they meet before there is a working draft.

As for a summit meeting, that should be contemplated only after a settlement is worked out and signed and ratified.

BERLIN IS, of course, not the only question on which the Western alliance has to find ways of coordinating its policy. There are all the other areas of international conflict, especially in Asia, the Middle East, and Africa.

It is not possible to do what Gen. de Gaulle asked President Eisenhower to do, which is to decide all world questions by the unanimous agreement of Britain, France, and the United States. Such a global directorate would cause more trouble by arousing suspicion and jealousy than it would have the power to curb.

The Western allies will have to learn that they must work together as much as they can, that they must disagree and go their separate ways as little as they can. For their marriage, although not always perfect, is indissoluble.

10 YEARS AGO

Sheriff Walter B. Sellmer told Marin County supervisors that jail meals should be scheduled weekly by a qualified dietician. He said "soup should be discouraged or if allowed should not be the main portion of any meal as it is hard to estimate the quality or any hidden mystery such soup may contain."

No Nativity Scene At San Anselmo

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I would just like to note the policy of the city council of San Anselmo toward Christmas. Every year for the past decade or so, the city of San Anselmo has placed a Nativity scene in front of city hall. But this year, there is no Nativity scene to decorate our fair city. Every other city in the county has some type of holy scene to express the true meaning of Christmas. What is the matter with San Anselmo? Has it become a completely pagan city? Come on, city council, let's put Christ back in Christmas!

Child Made Glad By Santa Talk

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

On behalf of my 6-year-old daughter Diane, I would like to thank your classified department and the Junior Chamber of Commerce for her "thrilling" chat with Santa, Tuesday evening on the phone.

She has been ill with the 'flu for three days and hadn't been able to get out to see Santa. The direct line call made a "very sad girl" a very happy one, as she had wondered how Santa could bring her what she wanted if she didn't get a chance to tell him.

It is reassuring to know that "our" paper and local businessmen take such an active interest in our children.

Double Standard Of Public Morals

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In reading your paper last week I could not help but compare some conflicting attitudes on two topics of current interest: Tropic of Cancer and the Nativity Scene.

It seems that we must have freedom when it comes to debasing ourselves with filth under the guise of "art"; but there must by no means be such freedom when it comes to enjoying a reminder of the beauty and real meaning of Christmas.

Talk about applying the double standard! One can't help wondering if A.C.L.U. doesn't stand for Anti-Christian Libertines Union.

Labor Relations Lesson Needed

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Being a resident of Marin County I have worked hard and long in support of schools and school bonds. However, the Board of Education is about to lose one of its staunchest supporters because of the vice-principal who is working as a scab, as brought out in F. Thomas Richey's letter of December 19.

If Mr. R. P. Martinelli or the principal of the school cannot give the vice-principal a lesson in labor-relations, I will gladly help Mr. Richey picket him.

Public Employees Deserve High Pay

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Earlier this calendar year there was discussion about adequate salaries for city and county officials. Now our new supervisor, Mr. Peter Behr, has raised the question once more. It is a good point.

I wish to emphasize the importance of adequate payment for adequate and able services to city and county, indeed any public official.

Qualified and competent and dedicated public servants (and "servants" is an inappropriate word and disagreeable in conotation) are not obtained by offering remuneration unequal to the abilities and qualifications expected of the person concerned.

The name of Mary Summers was mentioned. As a member of the county planning commission I am well acquainted with her ability and attention to her duties and responsibilities in a position demanding high intelligence and resistance to unjustified criticism in many cases. So I can support Mr. Behr in his contention that certain public officials are underpaid for the character of their responsibilities and duties.

If the citizens of Marin desire individuals of poor ability to be in a position of responsibility in the conduct of the affairs of this so rapidly advancing county; and if these same citizens confuse economy with inadequate and insufficient pay to public officials—OK, let us approve of a policy of giving janitor wages to people in important positions. We will get persons of janitor qualifications as a result.

This isn't a situation peculiar to Marin—the teaching profession suffers from it; many federal employees also are badly paid; most of our clergy receive barely enough to live upon in an age of high living costs. And remember, particularly, people of these categories are expected to give a superior performance, not only to us as adults and our interests but to our children's interests as well. Often, too, these officials are not only underpaid but are not even given proper authority to carry out their duties and responsibilities.

I believe this county is deserving of competent, able officials in all of our governmental agencies, and we won't get them unless the pay is in accord with standards of efficiency expected, in fact, demanded—usually "demanded" following some flagrant mis- or non-performance of duty. (And you should add "mal" to the foregoing performance of duty.)

Don't you believe our residents of Marin should give particular attention to this problem, and do you believe they are sufficiently aware of the need to do so?

ACLU Abused In Ignorance

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Along with the much published course in our schools to teach about communism, it might be a good idea to teach, incidentally, a little about what this republic stands for.

It is clear from the abuse that Mr. Dempster and the A.C.L.U. are getting in your letters column, and even from the Board of Supervisors, that this is not being taught very well, if at all, now.

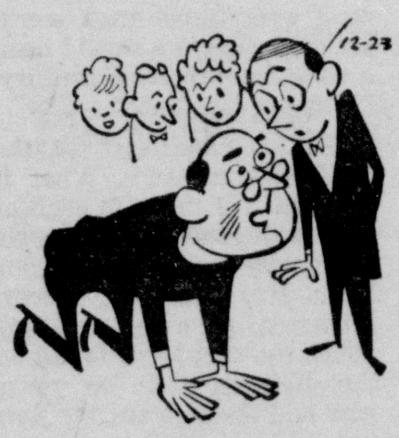
TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

The Rev. Andrew Poole tells about a fellow clergyman who was invited to a child's fashionable birthday party. Arriving tardily, he heard sounds of jollity in the rumpus room, and told the maid, "Don't announce me. I'm going to surprise them." He thereupon dropped to his hands and knees and crawled into the rumpus room, barking like a dog.

Looking up, he found six adults staring at him incredulously.

He had come to the wrong house.



Harry Vaughn thinks it advisable to understand the different terms now used to explain bad business. In a rolling readjustment, your neighbor loses his job. When you lose your job, it's a recession. It becomes a panic only when your wife loses her job, too.

It was Henry Thoreau who reminded us that it's OK to build castles in the air—provided we put foundations under them.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Peace Promised Men Of Goodwill 2,000 Years Ago

By DR. HAROLD K. GRAVES
President, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary

What event could cause opposing armies to call a moratorium on conflict and lift their voices in joyous musical harmonies? What day in the whole year are animosities often forgotten and goodwill shared with almost everyone? The answer that experience records is Christmas.

What strange influence is this that so moves men on a single day in the year? It is the day accepted by so many as the birthday of Jesus in Bethlehem's manger.

Much of our observance of the day and the season that precedes it has gotten out of hand, but even this is but further testimony to the influence of the event on men's lives around the world. The observance of such a day needs no defense. Men do not have to take note nor be moved by the spirit of the season. The day has meaning to all who sincerely seek. It is like answering the man who denies belief in God with, "Don't you wish you could believe in Him?" Belief carries its own verification.

The reality of His vital presence and power is not proven by concrete material tests. It is personal faith that is verified and which opens the way for proof of God's reality.

THE MESSAGE of the angel to the shepherds on the Judaean hills that first Christmas night was, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people: for there is born to you this day in the city of David a Saviour who is Christ the Lord." The account in Luke 2 goes on to say, "And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased."

"Be not afraid," "Good tidings of great joy," "Peace on earth." These were the words of hope for a confused people in another day, but are they not also the words of cheer we need now? In the midst of our armament race and desperate effort to hide from our enemies' bomb fallout, we are as afraid in this enlightened age as they 2,000 years ago. The coming of the Christ Child gave men hope in their despair; light for their darkness; and love for a world of hate and distrust. He has these for us.

Because He came, the world has changed. Wherever His name has gone women have known freedom and respect and no longer suffer the indignities of being treated as property; children are wanted, loved, and cared for because the Christ Child came. Schools have flourished in lands where His name has been honored, and children of promise grow to be strong men of state and commerce.

Hospitals flourish and disease is gradually driven from the earth because His touch has cooled the fevered brow, and His command caused men to care for their fellows. We have seen democracy rise to build its strong structure on the dignity of man. His belief in the worth of man has called forth the efforts of governments and society to give everyone his chance, his opportunity to determine his own destiny.

IT IS SMALL wonder then that we take this time in the year to remind ourselves of the difference He made when God entered time in the person of the Babe of Bethlehem. If at no other time all seem to remember now, and even though there are those who say another's celebration is wrong and unworthy, such celebration is to call to mind a happy and joyous time.

Still, in our modern day with all that we have and know, there is much groping after meaning and reality in life. Man's futile efforts are often so much beating of the air. Ultimately most men seek the same ends and pursue the same goals in life. Sorrow comes because so many seek these in the wrong way. They accept the counterfeit prizes that so often prove to be only so much tinsel and emptiness.

What better season of the year than now for each of us to take time to think on the true meaning of the birth of Jesus nearly two milleniums ago. Whatever our station, it would be well to see what this coming to earth did for us. Such remembrance may call some to other times when the God of Creation is acknowledged, praised, and his wisdom sought.

LIFT MILLIONS of voices on the earth today singing, "Be not afraid." When this confidence is born of experience and trust, our world will know peace even as it was promised. The "peace on earth" is promised to "men of good will." We have tried almost everything on a world scale. Perhaps we should heed a voice from the first century, "Why not try God?"

This is the heart of the Christmas message. What it can and will mean to each of us will depend upon what we personally seek to do with our lives. May the love, mercy, kindness, peace, and joy which the shepherds found on the Judaean hills be yours now and through out the new year.

DR. HAROLD K. GRAVES, president of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry, extends a Christmas message to the people of Marin County on this page. (Independent-Journal photo)

The Loneliest Guy In The World: Curmudgeon At Christmas Time

By DON KEOWN
Marin Magazine Editor
(Reprinted from Dec. 24, 1960, magazine.)

THE LONELIEST, the most pathetic figure in the world must be the curmudgeon on Christmas Eve.

We are not speaking of those phony Scrooges who are to be found during the pre-Christmas days in every office and in every neighborhood. For some reason they deem it smart to sneer at Christmas as the date approaches. But when the magic day does arrive, they throw off that false facade. And they become just as wholeheartedly involved in the holiday observance as any one of us.

The curmudgeons to whom we refer are, fortunately, an even smaller, and, unfortunately, a far unhappier group. They are the ones who do not sneer at Christmas. They ignore it.

THEY SIMPLY do not acknowledge the existence of Christmas.

And, in so doing, they miss one of the finest things in life.

The wise guys who enjoy aiming jibes at Christmas sometimes irk us. But those unhappy people who are unaware of Christmas provoke from us a far different sentiment—pity.

They cannot this Christmas Eve share with us holidays of the past for they have never known them.

They cannot enjoy festivities of the present as will the rest of us this very evening because they are incapable of the festive spirit.

Nor do they have Christmases of the future to look forward to, as do the rest of us.

PERHAPS they look upon the rest of us as soft-headed, sentimental slobs. But then, say we, better soft heads than hard hearts.

For Christmas is a time when each and everyone of us can afford to be sentimental without sense of shame. When the customary abrupt nod of the head or vacuous "hello" we give those we meet can become instead a cheery and meaningful "Merry Christmas."

When we can experience the warmth of giving. The fellowship of gatherings of family and friends.

And when we can relive a great and inspiring religious experience.

When we can rededicate ourselves to the true ideals of Christianity, and vow to live more closely by them in the year to come.

YES, WE pity those whose limited horizons prohibit them from enjoying this Christmas Eve with us.

But, then, they may not be entirely lost. As Charles Dickens pointed out, even a Scrooge can see the light if it burns brightly enough.

And every "Merry Christmas" heard on the street, in a store, in the home is fuel that makes those flames burn brighter.

So here's our "Merry Christmas" to our readers. We bet there isn't a curmudgeon in the lot.

LIKE CHILDREN EVERYWHERE, the boys and girls at Sunny Hills in San Anselmo wear big smiles as they wait while the time for Santa Claus' arrival draws nearer and nearer. 42 Pairs Of Overalls For Christmas

By CORENA GREEN

If you were a small boy how would you like to receive a pair of overalls for Christmas? Or if you were a girl, a Mother Hubbard or a box of cornflakes?

Pretty dismal, you say? Well, in the early part of the century this was accepted as the very best jolly old Santa Claus had to offer the children at the Sunny Hills home in San Anselmo.

Evidently his mind turned to intensely practical gifts, as early records of the home indicate. According to Mrs. Bernhardt Schmidt, who has been a Marin resident since 1912, is a former Sunny Hills president and now an honorary vice president, gifts solicited for the children in 1915 were overalls, metal combs and elastic. That year, Mrs. Schmidt reports, the climax of the celebration was the arrival of Santa Claus blowing a horn. He was followed by four boys bearing a huge box decorated with greens and a red box which, when opened, was found to contain 42 pairs of overalls.

That same Christmas the records show 29 children with measles, so a tree was planted outside for them to see.

In 1916 things were not much gayer, Mrs. Schmidt says. Donors were asked to give overalls, shoes, gym equipment, flour and cornflakes instead of dolls and toys. Also requested were Mother Hubbards of dark, serviceable material with long sleeves and high neck.

TIMES WERE still tough in 1919. Turkey was too expensive so 15 chickens were killed, which miraculously fed 125 children and staff.

Benefits, such as the recent "Christmas On Ice" produced by Raydine's School of Ice Skating, are not really new. Mrs. Raymond H. Thayer of San Rafael, who was once treasurer and now an honorary vice president, recalls that for many years the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael had a beautiful Christmas ceremony on the Sunday before Christmas to benefit Sunny Hills, which was very poor. In a Nativity scene in front of the church, Sunday school children brought gifts of canned goods, money and toys.

By the 1920s, Mrs. William Kent Jr., of San Francisco and Marin, reports that Christmas was becoming an event at the home in which the children could participate.

Mrs. Kent, who is now president, first worked at the Grape Festival 40 years ago as a bride. She remembers the wonderful tableaux where every child had to have a part. After exhausting Biblical sources, medieval costumes were improvised, often just pinned together. Mrs. Kent recalls how the children squabbled over the parts they were to play.

Mrs. George P. Egleston of San Francisco, now finance chairman, remembers that the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. used to decorate a tremendous Christmas tree for the children's parties. Dressed in red surplices, the children marched in bearing lighted candles. One year some board members, apprehensive over the prospect of a fire, decreed no candles. Thereupon, a crisis developed. Other board members appealed to the San Anselmo Fire Department which promptly dispatched five firemen to stand by so that the touching ceremony with the candle-lit faces of the little children in the darkened auditorium could go on.

At another Christmas, Mrs. Egleston reports the red curtain parted revealing children in a beautiful tableaux of the Nativity scene. All were quietly posed except the littlest angel who broke the tableau to scratch under her wing. Itching assuaged, she solemnly resumed her pose, hands folded in prayer.

Mrs. Schmidt further recalls that in the early 1900s children left the home at the age of 14 to make their way in the world. She has a record of all these young alumni being invited back for Christmas dinner in 1903.

But how times have changed!

NO LONGER is Sunny Hills an orphanage providing mere custodial care until the age of 14. Today it is a treatment center for children who have been deprived of security, trust and stability.

At Sunny Hills now, through the efforts of many persons and especially the recreation director, Mrs. Betty Dillon, Christmas has become individualized. The home goes to great lengths, not to shower the children with extravagant and disproportionate gifts, but to make each child's Christmas equal to that of his friends in the community. The fact that someone has taken the trouble to choose a gift just for him, based on his needs and desires of the moment and to wrap it and tag it just for him, has enormous meaning for the children.

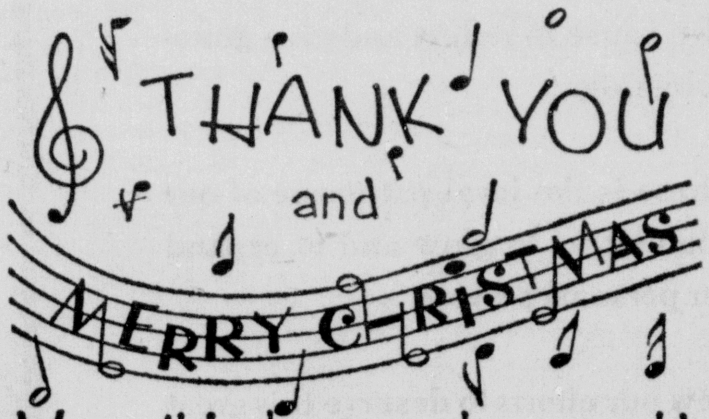
PAGEANTRY at Christmas time has long been a tradition at Sunny Hills. In top photo, the bringing in of the boar's head was typical of the Christmas productions when the picture was taken in 1920s. When Biblical sources for the tableaux were exhausted, the children improvised medieval costumes. And displayed great ingenuity in so doing. The lower photo shows a scene from a more recent Christmas pageant at the home in San Anselmo.



May this be a real enjoyable occasion for you.

Some people give gifts of money and this is used by the institution to buy gifts for the children at Christmas and to provide for special needs during the year such as graduation suits and that all-important first formal dress. Some individuals or civic groups, youth groups, sororities, churches or the like will request a list of the names and ages of the children and select gifts themselves.

On an evening near Christmas, this year Dec. 21, there is held a Christmas dinner around a tree decorated by the Junior Auxiliary. This is a "family" affair attended by children and staff. It is always a warm and pleasant occasion, with the children in their Sunday best and on their best behavior. After dinner the children return to their individual cottages where they open their gifts under their own Christmas trees.

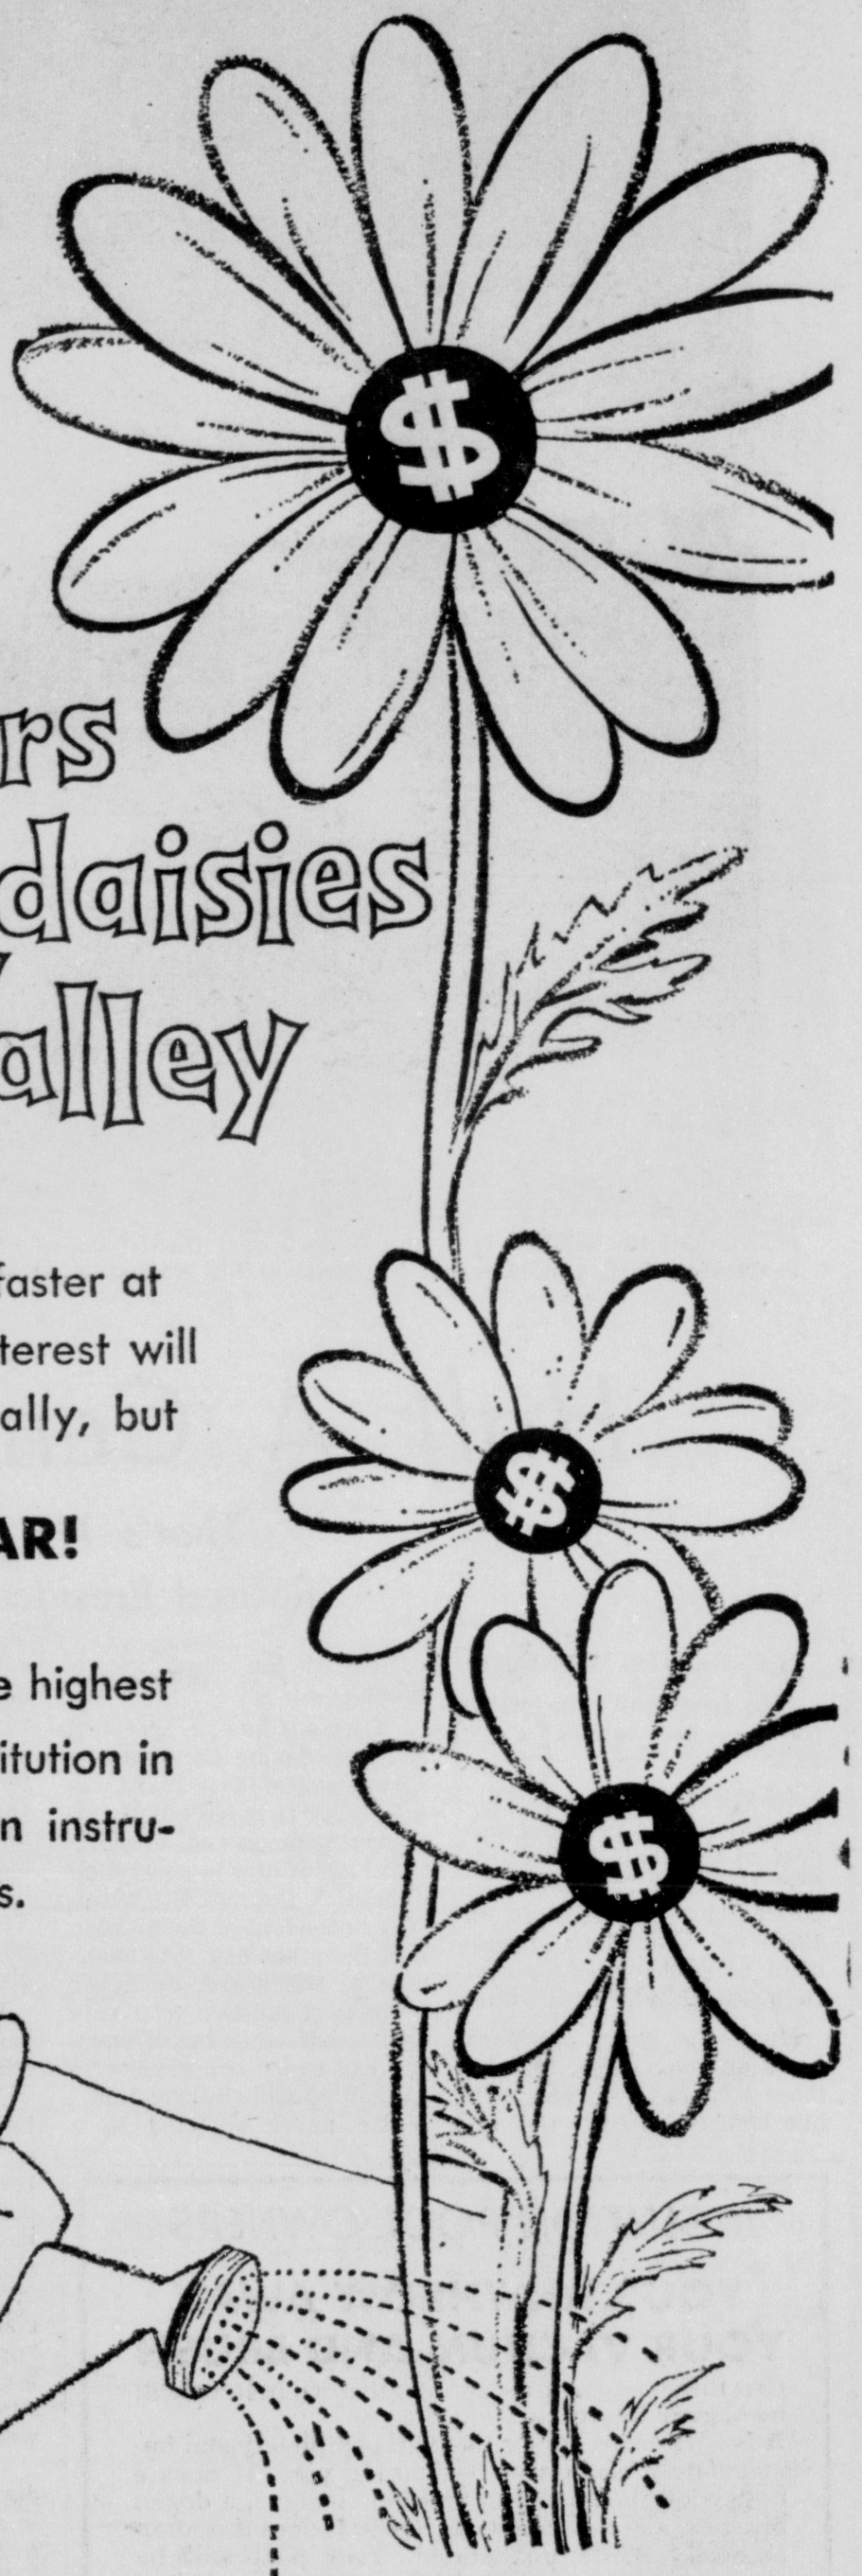
By Christmas day, some of the children have gone home for a day or so, but many are unable to do so. Special efforts are made to make Christmas Day a happy one for these children. There are special gifts under the tree for them and they have a small and intimate Christmas dinner. After dinner they may go on an outing to the city with their house parents. Many offers from private citizens to take one or two children into their homes for the day are received, but while the generosity of the offers is appreciated, it has been found that children are happier with the people they know best in the environment with which they are familiar.

SO THAT THE children may learn of the pleasure of giving as well as receiving, each child is given a small sum for his own Christmas shopping to be spent as he pleases. He may even spend it on himself if he chooses, but this rarely happens. Most children do amazingly well in stretching the amount to include small brothers and sisters and friends.

The religious significance of Christmas is not overlooked. During Christmas week there will be a candlelight service in the small Sunny Hills chapel and on Christmas Day, the children still there will go to church.

Last year for the first time members of the 666th Radar Squadron of the Air Force, stationed on Mt. Tamalpais, provided five trees for the cottages and the dining room. This year the men under the direction of Sgt. Emil Hedeen repeated their friendly gesture.

Today's Christmas is a far cry from the overalls and Mother Hubbards of 1915. But whether then or now, the interest in the welfare of the children of Sunny Hills, especially at Christmas, has been a continuing concern of the local community and its generous hearted inhabitants for many, many years.



ALTHOUGH HE RETIRED from the Dixie School District Board of Trustees in October, E. E. Lenander has lost none of his interest in education and the welfare of school children. Here he pays a visit to the Dixie District's newest school plant, the Don Timoteo School in Terra Linda, just to see how things are going along. (Independent-Journal photo)

Half A Century In Education

That's The Record Of E. E. Lenander, Retired President Of The Dixie School Board

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

"He is a man who walks softly — but carries a big stick."

In this way was E. E. Lenander, recently retired president of the Dixie School District Board of Trustees, categorized by an associate in 1953 on Lenander's retirement as principal of Central High School in St. Paul, Minn.

Much the same appraisal has been given of the man by those who have worked with him before and since that occasion of his first "retirement."

"Lenander's greatest strength during the years he served on the Dixie board was his ability to move quietly toward a common end, bringing those about him to a common opinion," Dennie B. Willis, superintendent of the district, said the other day. "As chairman of the board, he never brought a question to a vote until every other board member had every opportunity to gain all possible information.

"He never objected to a vote against him—he asked only that his opponents vote with reason."

Lenander's second "retirement" came last July when he concluded a four-year term on the Dixie board to take up a new life of gardening, building and puttering around the Terra Linda home at 901 Las Ovejas which he shares with his wife, Hilda.

IT ALSO ENDED almost half a century in the field of education.

Born in Minnesota in 1886 in a house constructed within a hillside and covered on three sides and top with earth, Lenander's family moved when he was 2 years old to a 190-acre farm about 20 miles from St. Peter. He clearly remembers today "driving a team of horses behind a walking plow from sunup until after sundown when I was 6 years old."

"I could plow an acre a day," he recalls (with pride) in a voice that is clear, yet so soft as to lead his listener to believe he is sharing a confidence. Nor does one doubt his prowess behind a plow. Today, some 60 years later, he imparts an impression of lean, tall power.

His elementary schooling he received in a rustic, one-room schoolhouse with "one teacher for everything."

"I remember one winter when she taught 48 kids," he said.

Spurred by his mother (whom he calls a well-educated if not well-schooled woman) and by his own "intellectual curiosity," he, at the age of 21, did an unprecedented thing in the eyes of the old-country Swedish community: He left the farm to attend high school.

From high school he went to Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter where, in the course of his studies, he found himself in an art class taught by an attractive young Swedish girl, Hilda Strid. She became his wife two years after his graduation.

"It was a wonderful opportunity for a girl," she says today. "I had 20 men in my class, all older than I.

"I had my choice of the lot."

"She was the most successful teacher in the school," her husband interrupted. "At least, she married one of her pupils."

Lenander's teaching career began before his graduation from college. During his sophomore, junior and senior years he taught religious history at a nearby parochial school. Most of his pupils, he said, were of Sunday school age.

His church school teaching experience was primarily responsible for his first position after graduation — that of chaplain at the Michigan State Penitentiary. The Protestant chaplain at the prison was pastor of the congregation where he taught school, and requested Lenander to take his place during summer vacation. His principal duty was to conduct religious services before the prisoners on Sundays.

"I don't consider it one of my big achievements" he said.

NOT AN ORDAINED minister, he was at that time a member of the Lutheran Church, the national religion of Sweden, the country from which his father had emigrated and in which his wife was born. He and his wife later became Presbyterians and are now members of the Community Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda.

Lenander still, on occasion, delivers a Sunday sermon to the congregation.

If the teaching profession is an underpaid one today, it was even less rewarding, financially speaking, in 1913, when, as a young man of 27, Lenander took his first teaching job at a high school in Leroy, Minn., at $85 a month. He stayed one year, teaching manual training and mathematics.

He next became principal of an elementary school in Toronto, S.D., where he was raised to $100 a month. By the end of his third year, during which time he taught math, English and manual training, in addition to acting as principal, he was earning the handsome sum of $999 a year for the nine-month period.

In 1917, the family moved

to Brookings, S.D., where he became principal of the high school—with a raise of $1,200 annually, a salary he considered adequate until the skyrocketing prices brought on by World War I made him realize it was not all the money in the world.

His next move was to Winthrop, Minn., where he stayed for six years a teacher and superintendent in a single-high school district of about 100 students. At the end of his sixth year he was earning $2,600.

"We thought that was a lot of money," he said.

In 1924, now with two daughters, he and his wife moved to St. Paul. "We knew they would want a college education and felt it would be far better for them if we lived in the Twin Cities so they could eventually attend the University of Minnesota."

Both daughters, Elizabeth (now Mrs. Robert Saunders of Berkeley) and Melva (Mrs. Thomas S. McCart of 346 Holly Drive, Terra Linda), became students at the University of Minnesota. Elizabeth majored in music and for seven years served as state statistician for the Minnesota Crime Bureau, the only woman in the history of the state to hold that position.

Melva was a teaching major, and for several years after her graduation taught homemaking at her alma mater. Today she holds the distinction of being the mother of the only pupil to finish all eight grades in the Dixie School District, a feat her daughter, Martha, accomplished by skipping a grade and finishing in seven years. (Martha is now a 13-year-old freshman at Terra Linda High School.)

During the 29 years from 1924 to 1953 Lenander remained in St. Paul, serving as teacher and eventually principal of Johnson, Humboldt and Central high schools.

It is probably at Central, where he retired for the first time, that a large piece of Lenander's heart still remains. It was there that his career reached its peak, the position offering him the opportunity to guide the destinies of some 2,000 students.

It was there that he showed his ability to use the big stick while walking softly, notably during an explosive fraternity-sorority situation that had stumped many an educator before him.

Believing the organizations to be snobbish, undemocratic and not in the best interests of the students, Lenander was able to eliminate them in three years—with the cooperation of the students who, from the admissions of many in letters to Lenander, were quietly won over to his way of thinking.

His success as an administrator is probably best expressed in a letter in 1949 from Roy O. Isacksen, then a junior high school principal who had at one time served as assistant principal under Lenander.

"Dear Mr. Lenander," Isacksen wrote, "I am trying to develop your patience and consideration in dealing with teachers and pupils; to anticipate administrative details so as to make school operation easier; and in dealing with parents, I am attempting to have your poise and good sense."

This was only one of a score of letters read on the occasion of Lenander's retirement from Central — a ceremony highlighted by the public reading of letters and testimonials from students, teachers, associates, family and friends, all giving tribute to his ability and warm understanding.

Unable to face a life of inactivity, Lenander immediately took another job—that of principal at Breck High School in St. Paul, a private, Episcopal military school.

He remained there for two years, retiring once again in 1955 and moving with his

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC. My columns have not been editorials, as you all know; but I would like to take this opportunity for myself, all of our customers, and all of our friends and neighbors in Marin County to thank God for being a resident of so great a county.

I want to thank God for being a part of such a great community where just a few days ago some fanatics parading under the name of the American Civil Liberties Union attempted to prevent the display of the birth of Christ on public property by describing it as unconstitutional, and where our Chamber of Commerce, our county counsel, and the formation of a group calling itself the Meaning and Message of Christmas in Marin took immediate and independent action to insure the honoring of the birth of a Man who revolutionized the thinking of all men of all creeds to bring out the feeling of Peace and Good Will Toward All. I was overfilled with joy when I drove past our Court House today and saw the Nativity scene standing as an example for all to see. This is indeed a very wonderful county.

As of now, I am volunteering my services to begin an immediate drive to collect enough money to purchase a new and beautiful Christmas Scene for next year and the years to follow. I ask, through this open letter, for cooperation from the Independent-Journal, Mr. Martinelli, Jr. and our Chamber of Commerce, all of our business people, all of our professional people, and all of the residents of Marin County. I pray that all of you that may be interested contact me by telephone or preferrably by post card or letter. Let's keep Marin the most beautiful and most respected county in America. If each family donated $1.00, and if each business organization donated $5.00, and if each professional donated a few dollars, we could have the most beautiful Christmas scene in the nation. This would be a one-time donation and certainly will not create a hardship on anyone.

The column today is a far cry from Stereo Hi-Fi, but its content is much more important than good music in the home. Let us all band together to raise enough money to replace the now worn and damaged Nativity Scene. If we all pitch in, it would cost us individually almost nothing at all. I will use this weekly column to keep you posted. God Bless you all, and we at Catania Sound wish you a VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS in our wonderful Marin.

CHRISTMAS EVE is almost on hand, but Marian and Tommy Moss couldn't wait to see some of the new toys which just might possibly be on the Christmas tree for them. So they decided to visit some of the stores at the Corte Madera Shopping Center for a preview. And what better guide than old Santa himself? Here St. Nick greets his little friends in the parking area while Marian and Tommy's mother, Mrs. Tom J. Moss of 241 Reed Circle in Strawberry, looks on.

The Wonderful Land Of Toys

Not every Marin boy and girl were as lucky as Marian and Tommy Moss, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Tom J. Moss of 241 Reed Circle, Strawberry, to have old Santa Claus himself as their guide for a tour of the toy departments of Marin stores.

But just about all of them, you can bet, dragged mother and father (some parents didn't require too much persuasion) to town or the shopping center for such a tour.

Few, indeed, were the youngsters who could wait until Christmas morning to find out just what wonders Santa might have in his pack in the way of toys.

WHAT DID they learn on those tours? Well, for one thing, they discovered that many of the new toys were based upon history—such as the Johnny Reb cannons.

Science kits which reproduce famous inventions of the past, such as Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone and Edison's electric light—are included in exciting educational kits.

Dozens of playroom projects based on electronics can help serve as stepping-stones for scientific careers later. Other kits reproduce the manufacture of plastics, and a new zoom microscope that can be adapted to viewing large or small objects will thrill junior biologists and other young folk.

Realism brings a new purpose into play with live action replicas of building equipment, made of heavy gauge steel. New thrills await the operators of a sturdy new mobile crane complete with two hand-operated levers that control the operation of the bucket and that position the boom.

Other new and exciting novelties include a hydraulic sanitation truck; an airlines lift truck, and a ramp side truck, the latest in light delivery trucks. New in the industrial equipment field is an oil refining plant for junior engineers.

The toy store owners also point to new "toys" which help youngsters prepare themselves for careers in business—learning sales promotion, customer relations, care of stock—even bookkeeping—while at play.

Little homemakers can enjoy the sizzle of bacon in a frying pan or the gay perk of a percolator—in their own pint-sized kitchens.

The new thrills that await electric train operators are too numerous to mention — but there's something exciting and different for every railroader.

THERE ARE new musical pianos; a megaphone which can be heard 300 feet away; midget auto racers for indoor speedways, and a host of others.

New showings of Wild West regalia include stage-coach strong boxes with maps and simulated silver dollars; play guns and holster sets for the "fast draw" crowd and an exact replica of the Winchester 94 which was standard equipment in the "winning of the West."

More than a billion and a half dollars worth of toys, games and accessories will come from Santa's pack to delight the good little boys and girls of the nation this Christmas. And a goodly portion of them will be delivered to Marin addresses where, of course, all the little boys and girls are good.

And the time isn't far off now!

Two Children In Toyland

THE FIRST STOP for Santa and his two young friends, Tommy and Marian Moss, was the Toy World in the Corte Madera Shop. Here alongside a game based on the Flintstones, Stone Age television cartoon and comic strip characters, the youngsters found a robot commando who moves along, rolls his eyes, waves his arms and even fires rockets from the top of his head, all at the bidding of young Tommy who holds the controls.

"THAT WAS PRETTY exciting," the youngsters agree as they and Santa leave Toy World after a stop that was all too brief. But there are other sights to be seen. And as they stroll along, Santa tells his companions about his workshop at the North Pole where his inventar-elves are busy the year around thinking up new ideas for toys for the worker-elves to make.

SANTA CLAUS REMEMBERS that Tommy wanted to see some cars, so their next stopping point was Woolworth's where Santa demonstrates the newest in racers, the Shark U-Control Racing Car. Tommy learns that he can start the car, change the speed, make it turn and stop it, all by using controls held in the hand.

AND NOW IT'S Marian's turn to find a toy that holds a special interest for her. In the toy section of the Thrifty Drug Store she and Santa discuss some of the things she could make for herself and her dolls should she be lucky enough to get this little red spinning wheel on Christmas Day.

AND, NATURALLY, Marian's tour of toyland wouldn't have been complete without some dolls. Here, at Montgomery Ward and Co. she is introduced to a bigger-than-life-size friend who could walk right out of the store with her. And some of the dolls not only walk, but talk as well—and even pucker up and return a kiss.

"OUR TOUR is nearly over," Santa tells the youngsters as they leave Ward's. "Just one more stop." But for Marian and Tommy the end has come all too soon. They've been fascinated by the new toys that they have encountered in their stroll. And, more than that, they've enjoyed the stories that Santa has told them about the wonders of the North Pole as they have walked from store to store. For a grown-up, this Santa Claus is quite a person, they agree. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

AND AT THEIR LAST stopping point, the tour comes to an end with a "bang." Santa and Marian cover their ears as Tommy prepares to load and fire a cannonball from his Johnny Reb cannon in the toy section of Grant's in the Corte Madera Center. Now the youngsters will just have to wait until Christmas morning to learn how many of the wonderful toys they have seen will be theirs. It won't be an easy wait.

THIS IS THE WAY the more than 2,000 students at Central High School in St. Paul, Minn., knew E. E. Lenander when he was their principal. Shown at his desk in his office at the St. Paul school, he was described by one associate as "a man who walks softly — but carries a big stick."

THIS GRADUATION picture shows E. E. Lenander in 1913 at the time he completed his work at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn. Fifteen years later he earned a Master's Degree in administration from the University of Minnesota.

wife to Marin County, settling in Terra Linda.

Why, instead of resting on his laurels earned during his years as an educator and administrator, was he interested in running for the board of the Dixie School District?

"To give the Dixie school kids the best the district could afford," he answered simply.

"I feel that the district greatly improved during the four years I was on the board," he added. "But I do not take all the credit. The good things that came to the district were also brought by the other members of the board and a faculty that felt the same way as we did.

"There were no disagreeable disagreements during my years on the board," he said.

THERE WAS, however, phenomenal growth. In 1954, before the surrounding hills of Terra Linda and Marinwood were covered with homes, the one-school district numbered 53 pupils, its average population since it was formed almost 100 years ago in 1858.

When Lenander was elected to the board in 1957, the district had grown to 1,220 pupils. When he retired from the board in October of this year, there were 2,671 pupils in five schools—Bernard Hoffman, Mary E. Silveira, Santa Margarita, Lucas Valley and Vallecito. (The Don Timoteo School is expected to open at the latest sometime in January, 1962.)

According to those who closely followed the progress of the district during Lenander's years of the board, it was because of his lead that the board was able to present convincingly to the district parents a forward program of libraries and "floating teachers," the latter enabling teachers to work with slow youngsters and rapid pupils on a separate basis.

The program required additional personnel and facilities—adding up to additional money — and Lenander is given a major share of the credit for the overwhelming vote of approval accorded the necessary tax increase.

Also a result of his teaching experience is the district's advanced program of industrial and home arts. His forward-looking attitude as an administrator was also responsible for the purchase of large parcels of land on which now sit comparatively small schools.

"The district is not going to quit growing," he said in urging the acquisition of additional land. "Some day we will need it."

Lenander's evaluation of himself is: "I probably lean toward the conservative."

He feels both extremes of educational theory — the so-called "reading, writing and arithmetic" school, as well as the "progressives" — have gone too far in their chosen directions. He, at the same time, is confident that not only education, but mankind as well, is moving steadily forward.

His philosophy is best expressed in a sermon he delivered at the Terra Linda Presbyterian Church last October:

"TO ME IT appears that a master Architect must have guided the creation of our little earth.

"Can we not see in man's history the steady progress led by a Guiding Power?

"There is hatred, but concern for others has never been greater than it is now. War and famine go on, but their wrongs are felt with an ever increasing concern.

"To me, it seems that the Creator of Heaven and earth, and that which thereon dwells, make Himself known to those who will stop to reason."

Traditional Ballads Gathered By A Scholar For Scholars

ANCIENT BALLADS TRADITIONALLY SUNG IN NEW ENGLAND, volume two, compiled by Helen Hartness Flanders, University of Pennsylvania Press, 320 pages, $10. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This is volume two of a series taken from Helen Hartness Flanders' ballad collection at Middlebury College.

Added are critical analyses by Tristam P. Coffin and music annotations by Bruno Nettl. The result, the publishers say, is "the most complete and valuable source on the subject ever published."

The collection contains nearly all the traditional ballads of America. And in a number of cases, many versions of a single ballad have been included. For example: 36 versions of "The Sweet Trinity."

Tunes as well as texts are given in the form in which they were originally sung.

This, then, is no mere songbook. It is a scholar's work. And intended for a scholar's study. There is historical and sociological as well as musical significance.

A BASIS FOR MEDITATION by Walter H. Anderson, Vantage Press, 64 pages, $2.50. Reviewed by Catherine M. O'Toole.

Webster's New International Dictionary defines meditation as the act of close or continued thought. Philosophically, meditation has been characterized as the pondering of divine things.

The value of meditation is predicated on the theory that an inspired thought of one's own is more effective in determining conduct than any number of ideas originated by another.

Described by the publisher as "mystical," "a book that eulogizes women," and "a book for married lovers," this work technically adheres to the prerequisites for meditation. Blank pages follow the 25-page textual presentation so that the reader may record his personal remembrances. Unfortunately, the text itself is uninspired and uninspiring. Its mysticism is merely an adroit use of allegorical reference to a spiritual life. Its central theme, "woman," is so eulogized as to lose contact with reality. The potential reader, intent upon meditation of the meaning of love, could spend his time more profitably in studying his environment.

BAHIA — ENSENADA AND ITS BAY by Thaddeus R. T. Brenton, Westernlore Press, 158 pages, $5.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Teacher and writer Brenton traveled the world, but when he decided to retire he chose, to the amazement of his friends, Ensenada in Baja California. Now he writes with warm understanding and tolerance of Ensenada and the Mexicans with their "manana" outlook on life. Mixed with his keen observations is some rib-tickling but never barbed humor. The book is excellent for those seriously interested in understanding our neighbors to the south.

Travel guides are included for British Columbia and Alberta, on the chance the visitor will elect to visit Canada on the trip north.

Well done, and good buy for the traveler who likes to plan and read.

CHRISTMAS SONG

On this morning
sings the bird of light
high carols, tolls
the ancient glory of a star.

Praises sing, myrrh and incense on this day,
precious miracle

Into this evening's falling sings the bird of light
of dream fulfilled
through centuries—Hark!

Tomorrow sings the bird of dark.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas Eve is gay and happy
For my mammy and pappy.
Santa brings us all good cheer
With his presents once a year.
With his sleigh and reindeer, too,
Santa soon will visit you.

When he comes with toys supreme
All the children shout and scream.
Soon he'll leave us for a year
Ending all the Christmas cheer.

As he reaches his far goal,
Which, of course, is the North Pole,
Santa's helpers and his deer
Will rejoice with Christmas cheer.
Santa is so cold and tired
But he knows that he's admired,
So he doesn't really mind.
He's done good for all mankind.

If you were so very good,
You received the gifts you should.
If the gifts you want aren't there,
Don't think Santa is unfair.
The things you get, are what you need—
Based upon your every deed.

SHEPHERD STAR

Let winds be still:
No lightning flash, or thunder
Crash above the lonely hill,
Let rain sink softly under
Roots to make the holly grow,
And polish pearls of mistletoe.
Sweet star, shine with a Christmas light,
Lead us in lanes of Peace this night!

Two Jazz Singles Hit Top

By JOHN SUNIER

Perhaps the popular singles market is not beyond help, what with two good jazz waxings having made their way to the top recently—Cannonball Adderley's "African Waltz," and Dave Brubeck's "Take Five."

The first provides the title (and the first track) for a new Riverside stereo disc (RLP 9377) of the Adderley orchestra, with arrangements by Ernie Wilkins and Bob Brookmeyer. Best big-band bash I've heard in a long time — the swinging flute sounds a delight beginning to end. My favorite was Wynton Kelly's (he's on piano too) "Kelly Blue."

Watch for a deluge of "West Side Story" lp's right about now a la the "Porgy and Bess" avalanche couple years back when the film came out. Well, the Hollywood West Story is promising to be good looking, but horrible listening. The changes in the lyrics are pretty awful (In "Officer Krupke," instead of "My father's a junkie, my mom's an S.O.B." we have, "My father's a Commie, my mother pushes tea.") But the over-lush Hollywood sound stage arrangements are too much. Better stick with the original-Broadway-cast album. Both are on Columbia, so they won't mind which you choose.

Anyway, this is all preface to saying Stan Kenton's "West Side Story" is out on Capitol T 1609 and it's great, even to anti-Kenton me. Electrifying jazz arrangements following the general plot of the story and featuring the new sound of four mellophoniums, a French-hornish instrument. Johnny Richards did most of the adaptation of Leonard Bernstein's music and the instrumentals prove driving and exciting.

"Friday and Saturday Nights—Miles Davis In Person—At the Blackhawk, San Francisco" is the lengthy title of Columbia C2S 820 2-disc stereo album. It contains 12 numbers recorded on the spot last spring in San Francisco, the first time Miles has been recorded on location. The performances of this top-ranking jazz musician are varied and powerful, among the best he's done. Wynton Kelly again shows his stuff on piano and is ably assisted by Paul Chambers, bass, and Jimmie Cobb, drums.

Religious Thinkers Give Views On Nuclear Weapons Problem

GOD AND THE H-BOMB edited by Donald Keys, Bellmeadows Press with Bernard Geis Associates, 224 pages. Reviewed by Paul Miller.

Out of the opinions of 28 intelligent religious thinkers —including the Pope and Israel Goldstein—compiled in one book, something more than general agreement that nuclear weapons are not so good for the world ought to be expressed.

And something has been—by a few of the contributors.

In the work, self-described as a symposium embracing religious thinkers, and conceived by television personality Steve Allen and publisher Bernard Geis, much of what has been asserted before, condemning the use of the atomic bomb during World War II, the continued stockpiling of nuclear weapons by the United States, the adaptionists of our country's present policy regarding nuclear war, etc. is reiterated. But didactic essays by Norman K. Gottwald, Christopher Hollis and Martin Buber say more and say it better.

Here is some of what they say:

Gottwald, professor of Old Testament, Andover-Newton Theological School — "When we accept as necessary the contemplation of radiological murder—of millions of Russians and millions of Americans—can anyone doubt that our society is brutalized thereby. If a Christian believes that political and social orders are possible only through threatening an act which dissolves all recognizable human order, what is left of his belief in God the Creator? ... Only patient power of private protest can shatter the illusions and fantasies of power diplomacy to which nations will cling until enough citizens recognize that the emperor has no clothes."

Hollis, member of the editorial board of "The Tablet" —"The modern pacifist, it seems to me, weakens his case if he ties it up with maxims of absolute unconditional non-resistance—takes it upon himself to argue that Roland should have laid down his arms at Roncesballes or that we should have done nothing to rescue Jews from gas chambers ..."

Buber, professor emeritus of sociology, Hebrew University, Jerusalem—"It is now high time for men to tell the politicians: '. . . We have given you the power you hold because we believed you to be persons who under any circumstances know what they do. We see we have been mistaken. The frenzy of the game has deprived you of the capacity to know the true nature of the game you play and whither it may lead . . . Now the game plays with you . . .'"

Several of the authors maintain that the United States or Britain should disband its weapons now, that Russian occupation would be the lesser of two evils.

A Christmas Tradition In Many Of Our Homes

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS by Clement C. Moore, illustrated by Leonard Weisgard, Grosset and Dunlap. Reviewed by Claudia Royal.

Christmas would not be complete without the reading of this poem. It has become traditional in many American homes. Children sit spellbound while they listen.

Full of fun, fancy, and excitement, "The Night Before Christmas" was one of the first books to bring laughter into children's literature. Almost a century and a half ago this beloved poem was written by a father for his children.

Leonard Weisgard's color-drenched illustrations attract children. With face aglow, 3-year-old Johnny pressed his hand across the end papers.

There is a rugged reality about the artist's figures. He uses strong colors. Every page is filled with toys, Santa Claus and his eight tiny reindeer, and other Christmas scenes. The book is climaxed with the final picture, "looking through the window at the snowy Christmas morning."

THE OLD TESTAMENT by Marguerite De Angeli, illustrator, Doubleday, 256 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Claudia Royal.

In the Old Testament this dedicated author-artist has made a marvelous, monumental contribution to all our lives and especially to our children. This illustrious work of art is the climax to a quarter-century of writing and illustrating children's books. With this Marguerite De Angeli celebrated her golden wedding anniversary and the silver anniversary of her first book.

The author arranged selections from the King James version of the Bible in continuous order. Then she illustrated these stories with her sensitive, artistic pictures. She has made the Old Testament characters live! It becomes the children's book.

From childhood the author admired Old Testament characters. Her dream was to picture them as she saw them. She traveled extensively in the land of the Bible, to get the atmosphere and accurate pictures of the place and people. Then she spent three years doing the 159 illustrations. She seemed to take her work as a mission in life. This treasure should have a permanent place in every home.

There's No Need To Cry Over Spills On Oak Floors

If you're familiar with recommended first-aid treatment for your fine oak floors, there's no need to cry over spilled milk — or spilled grease or ink or even cigarette burns, for that matter.

Such is the advice of floor maintenance experts, who point out that most stains and other marks caused by household accidents can be removed so that the natural beauty of the wood remains unmarred.

Here are remedies for a few of the more common floor "injuries." The treatments are recommended in a new booklet, "How to Keep Oak Floors Beautiful," published by the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association.

MILK OR FOOD STAINS—Rub the spot with a damp cloth. Rub dry and re-wax.

INK SPOTS—Clean the spot and surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool dampened with a good floor cleaner or mineral spirits. If the spot remains, rub with fine sandpaper, feathering out three to four inches into the surrounding area. Re-wax and polish. Should this be ineffective, apply a solution of one ounce of oxalic acid to one quart of water. The solution is poisonous, so wear rubber gloves. Let it stand one hour, then rinse with clear water. Repeat if the spot remains. Should the second application fail, sand the area with No. 00 sandpaper and apply a matching finish, feathering out into the surrounding area. Buff lightly with No. 00 steel wool after finish is dry. Then apply a second coat of finish, let dry and re-wax. If the spot resists this treatment, replace the affected flooring piece.

GREASE OR OIL STAINS—Saturate cotton with hydrogen peroxide and place it on the stain. Then saturate a second layer of cotton with ammonia and place it over the first. Repeat until the stain disappears.

CIGARETTE BURNS—Unless they are too deep, they often can be removed merely by rubbing them with steel wool. Soap and water on the steel wool make it more effective.

ALCOHOL SPOTS — Rub with a cloth treated with liquid paste wax, silver polish or boiled linseed oil, or with a cloth dampened slightly with ammonia.

ANIMAL OR DIAPER STAINS—If not of long standing they often can be removed by the same treatment used for ink stains. Should they resist cleaning, replace the affected flooring pieces.

HEEL MARKS AND CASTER MARKS—Rub vigorously with fine steel wool dipped in floor cleaner. Wipe dry and polish.

STAINS CAUSED BY STANDING WATER — Rub the spot with No. 00 steel wool, then re-wax. If this fails, sand lightly with fine sandpaper, then clean the spot and surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool dipped in mineral spirits or floor cleaner. When the flooring has dried apply matching finish, feathering out into the surrounding area. Re-wax after the finish has dried thoroughly.

Most stains can be prevented or minimized, the booklet points out, by keeping your oak floors well waxed and by wiping up spilled liquids immediately.

Wax prevents stain-causing agents from seeping into the wood and penetrating the fibers.

For a free copy of the booklet write the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association, Dept. CN, 814 Sterick Bldg., Memphis 3, Tenn.

Holly Bush Certain To Catch The Eyes Of The Passers-By

A holly bush in full berry is sure to stop traffic this time of year. Passers-by never fail to look twice and most of them long to clip a few boughs for holiday decor.

It's a mystery, for all this, that more people don't plant holly in their own gardens. The many members of the family are easily grown and make excellent garden subjects even when not in berry. They make fine specimen shrubs and can also be grown in tubs or sheared into a glossy green hedge.

Gardeners occasionally complain that they've grown holly which never produced a berry. The reason for this is simply that the specimen grown was a male which is non-bearing by nature, or it was a female with no male in the vicinity to pollinate it.

The formula for success with hollies once called for both male and female plants. Today, however, nurserymen offer self-fertile shrubs — usually a female onto which a male branch has been grafted.

When it comes to choosing varieties, you're on your own. Nurserymen always carry several and one is usually a "best performer." Better ask before you buy.

English Holly is the traditional Christmas Holly with the spiny leaves and bright red berries. Burford Holly, however, is better suited to warm climates. Burford Holly has few, if any, spines and glossy rounded leaves. Cornuta (Chinese Holly), another popular variety, has more familiar spiny leaves. Between and around these varieties are a dozen or more that can be grown in home gardens. Some are almost treelike, others nearly prostrate.

The holly you buy this month will have berries when you buy it and can be used for decor in the home or on the front porch until the holidays are over. It can then go into the garden to be grown for future cutting.

A slightly acid soil is best for hollies. Otherwise they have few demands. Certainly they give far more than they ask.

You Can't Improve On Lilies

The garden world has no more beautiful inhabitants than modern lilies. These wonderful hybrids are bred to absolute perfection — so much so, in fact, that it's hard to see where any more improvements might come from.

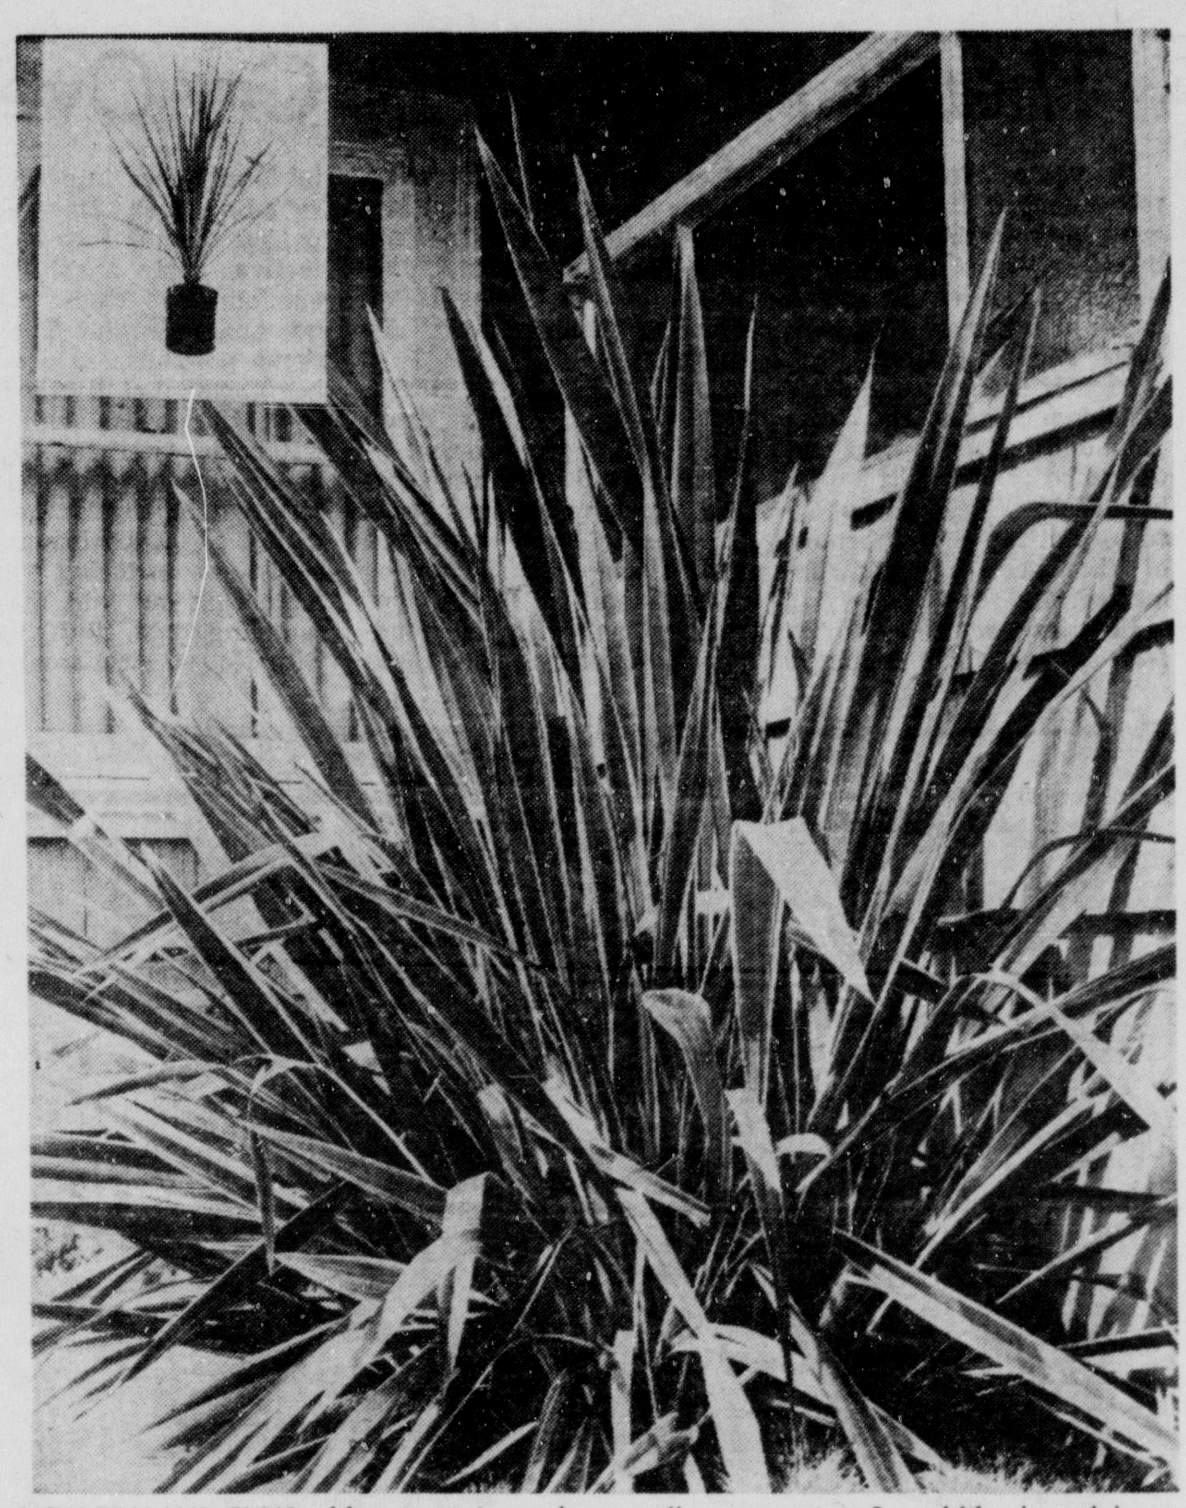
The wonderful Mid-Century hybrids, Fiesta hybrids and Bellingham hybrids have been with us for more than a few years now, but their beauty is no less breathtaking than when they first appeared on the scene. We can say the same thing for the Aurelian and Olympic Hybrids as well as for the newer trumpet lilies. Each is similar in its grandeur to all the other lilies, but the differences between them are definite and definitely desirable.

The gardener who intends to grow lilies should adhere rigidly to the following rules:

First off, in choosing a planting site, keep sun requirements in mind. Here along the coast, full sun is the lily's preference. But valley gardeners should try to provide filtered sun — at least during mid-day.

Next, the matter of drainage is all-important. Lilies abhor wet feet and the bulbs will rot unless good drainage is available. A sloping site is ideal, but any well drained spot on the level will do.

These are the two most crucial points to successful lily growing. You can encourage further success by feeding occasionally after spring growth starts; by adding leaf mold to insure acidity and sand to leaven the soil. Watering is important, but it's easier to over water than otherwise.



NEW ZEALAND FLAX adds an exotic touch wherever it is used, but it is especially effective as a patio accent shrub. From small beginnings, as shown in inset photo, it forms wide clumps six to seven feet tall at maturity. Sword-like broad leaves are streaked with yellow and white. It serves as a good windbreak and is very hardy. (California Assn. of Nurserymen photo)

IT'S IMPORTANT

Give Some Careful Thought To Shrub Border Before Planting

The trouble with too many border plantings is that too little thought has preceded their planting. Some gardeners seem to consider the border merely as space to be filled, which is what they proceed to do.

In landscape design, the border is one of the most important features in your garden. It defines the garden area, frames it so to speak, and if the frame is wrong, so is the rest of the picture.

Before planting a shrub border, the inexperienced gardener should seek professional advice. First, however, he should make up a plot drawing of the landscape, showing the relationship between house and lot, indicating fences, existing trees and, of course, existing shrub borders, if there are such things.

Strictly speaking, the shrub border is not entirely that. It will consist not only of shrubs but will include certain choice perennials and even a few bulbs and annuals. Since it is a permanent investment, however, carefully selected shrubs and a few good perennials will make up the main part of the planting. Annuals and bulbs can be spotted for their fleeting color contributions where they won't be too sorely missed at the end of their bloom.

Properly planted, the border is almost a self perpetuating thing, requiring little pruning and no severe cutting back. With good planning, the result, of course, is shrubs which mature to your size specifications.

SOUTH SEAS is a new hybrid tea rose to be introduced this coming spring by the Jackson and Perkins Co. It's a robust, tall growing plant, three to four feet in height, that produces enormous Tahitian pink flowers up to seven and a half inches across. Fully double, the flowers are high center and fragrant. Strong, upright canes are excellent for cutting.

How To Prolong The Enjoyment Of Your Holiday Season Plants

Observing a few simple tips on care will prolong your enjoyment of the poinsettias, azaleas, and other plants of the holiday season that add such a bright touch to your living room decor.

Most top professional growers ship gift plants in porous clay pots to insure plants of the highest quality. But if you have received your holiday plant in a thin-wall, nonporous container, transfer it to a clay pot to preserve its health and beauty.

Clay dissipates excess water and also leaches out harmful salts in the soil providing the constant moisture conditions necessary for healthy roots.

Horticultural experts say that over-watering is a leading reason why holiday gift plants prematurely fade away. One simple rule of green thumb gardening indoors is to water all your plants at the same time each day until water runs out of the drainage hole in the bottom of the pot. Use warm water.

This drainage is important, particularly for poinsettias which thrive best under drier conditions than most plants.

Azaleas, too, should be watered regularly, preferably in daylight hours. The blossoms will last longer if they are kept out of the direct sunlight in the coolest room in the house.

Experts say overheating is the second greatest hazard to holiday potted plants. Place them away from radiators or other heat outlets. It's a good idea to open the window in a nearby room during the sunny period of the day to freshen the air. Clay pots help plants tolerate the heat by keeping the roots 10 to 15 degrees cooler than non-porous containers.

You can still enjoy decorative planters and jardineres by placing your pots inside them after lining the bottom of the planter with an inch or two of pebbles for drainage. To be certain your pots are kept moist, you can fill in the planter with spagnum moss which should be watered lightly once a week until it's spongy to the touch.

TULIPS IN the home for Easter? It's getting a bit late, but that popular home gardening hobby, forcing bulbs, can still make it possible. Here the tulips have been grown in a red clay pot.

TIES WITH THE PAST

Don't Forget Fragrance In Planning The Garden

Color may be the ultimate goal of most gardeners, but it should not be the only one. In our search for bigger and better bloom, let's not overlook fragrance.

Fragrance, far more than bloom, will stimulate your senses. We see color every day and in everything, but a particular fragrance is often a fleeting experience or one that is repeated only once a year. Occasionally we catch a scent that we've missed for years and it brings immediate recall of the circumstances under which we caught it last. Scent is the chain that ties us to our past.

Plan, then, to shop for fragrance for your own garden. Nurserymen can help you to choose a variety of plants that will yield a near year-round supply of perfume in the garden.

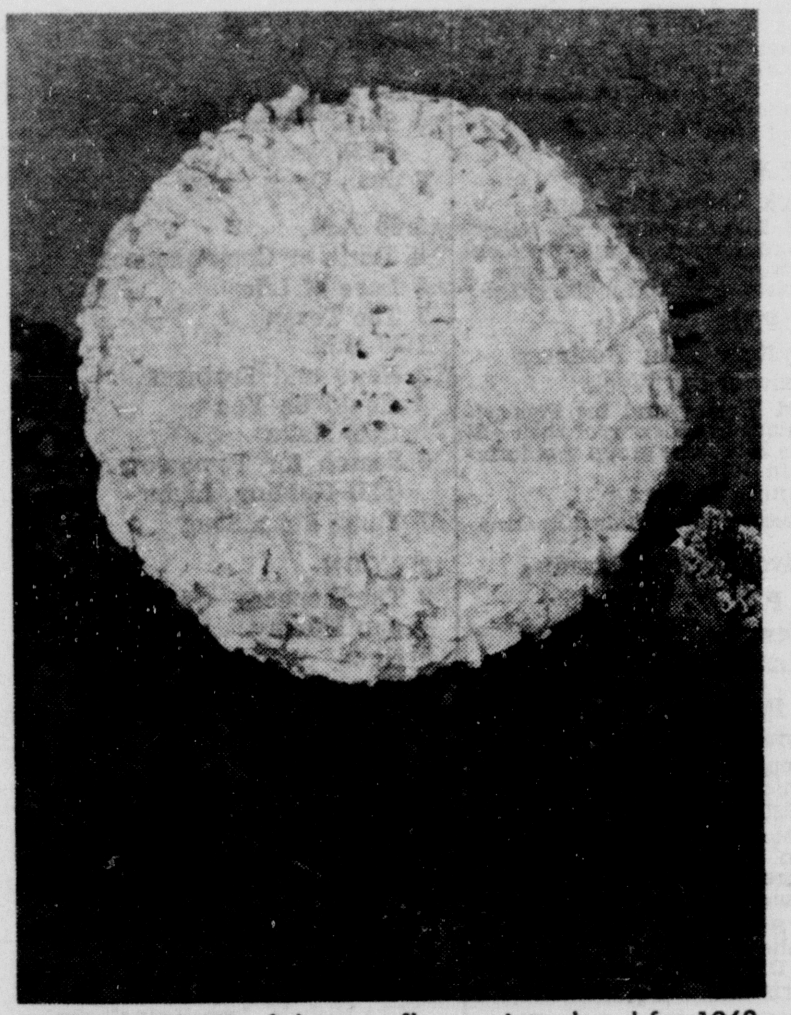
IF YOU WERE to plant for fragrance on a calendar around basis, for instance, you might try something like this: To start the year, there's usually Daphne in bloom as early as January, or one of the fragrant Viburnums.

Daphne is still around in February and into March, having been joined by the Delavay Osmanthus and later by the deciduous magnolias. Freesias and Jonquils add their perfume, also, during these late winter months.

Mexican Orange blooms with its delicate, orange-like scent in March and April, soon to be followed by Victorian Box, that most heavily scented of all the Pittosporums. By June, Mock Orange has joined the parade and Star Jasmine, too. Soon the heat-loving true jasmines and the heavenly gardenias will bloom.

THE SCENTS of summer usually linger on into fall, but planting a Night Jessamine in any corner of the yard will insure prolonged effects. As for fragrance in late fall, that's something of a problem. Certain roses can be relied on and Chrysanthemums have their own peculiar, but memory laden, pungency. .

A trip to the nursery about this time would seem in order. For surely among so many shrubs, you will turn up a familiar fragrance here or there.



HERE'S ANOTHER of the new flowers introduced for 1962. It's the Primrose Climax, a giant hybrid marigold developed by W. Atlee Burpee Co. It is a fully double, frilled and ruffled five-inch globular bloom in a clear, creamy primrose color.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Christmas gift plants should be carefully watered. Most of them can be saved for the garden. And don't over-water.
- Chrysanthemums should be cut back to the ground if you haven't done it already.
- Fuchsias are better pruned toward the end of winter than now. Wait until early February.
- Many deciduous shrubs and trees need pruning at planting time. Ask your nurseryman.
- Perennials may still be planted. Primroses, Delphinium, Phlox, Columbine—many others are available.
